Judge Rules Dissident Drivers Cannot Operate

Northgate Dispute: DC Takes Hands Off Stand

By FRANK LaPIERRE

It was made clear Monday that Daly City wants to maintain a neutral posture in the current dispute between Northgate Transit Company and the Daly City Transit Systems, Inc. — the latter formed by a group of some 18 dissident drivers.

Atty. Albert Polon- sky advised the council not to act on the issue because it is now before the Public Utilities Commission and the San Mateo County Superior Court.

Until such time as both these agencies decide the issue of who may operate a transit system in Daly City, the city fathers should adopt a "hands off" policy, Polonsky feels.

The PUC was scheduled to review a complaint filed by Daly City Transit Systems, asking for permission to takeover the Northgate franchised routes, at a meeting in the State Building, San Francisco, Tuesday morning.

For the past two weeks, a feud has developed between the bus drivers and Northgate.

In recent days, the disgruntled drivers — proclaiming Northgate has failed to provide good service to the citizens of the community — formed their own company with consultant Mateo Mattheus acting as their representative.

Attorney George Corey slapped the newly formed company with a temporary restraining order last Friday issued by Superior Court Judge Robert Miller, which forbids them to operate vehicles on Daly City streets.

Corey also sought relief from what he called "verbal and physical threats" to Northgate drivers.

Meanwhile, Northgate said it has brought in 13 "new" buses and operators from outside.

Mattheus, disputing statements that his drivers have threatened Northgate drivers and passengers, said Northgate actually had brought in only six buses.

"This is not enough to provide efficient service to the city," he charged.

Northgate has held its franchise to operate in Daly City and San Francisco since the mid-1960s.

Councilman Paul Hupf, former city attorney and municipal judge, traced the history of Northgate at a meeting Monday before an audience of some 180 persons —mostly supporters of the Daly City Transit Systems, Inc.

Hupf pointed out that Northgate actually started in 1956 with two eight-passenger limousines.

It later applied for a permit from Daly City to operate buses.

This permit application was later withdrawn and Northgate applied, instead, to the Public Utilities Commission, thereby taking jurisdiction away from Daly City and placing it in the hands of the State.

Whatever action the council took to cancel or expand Northgate's franchise would be a moot point now, Hupf explained.

The councilman allowed that the city always had supported Northgate and its drivers in past complaints lodged against the transit system.

"We did this on the ground that (Northgate) provided service important to people of Daly City," Hupf said.

An impassioned plea from several supporters of the new company asked the council to intervene.

Mattheus said "there are 20 buses now sitting in (a parking lot). These drivers want to serve the community, but they can't," Mattheus said.

Julius Castellan, an outspoken member of the community's senior citizens, said most of the drivers who left Northgate to form the new company "live and work in this community — many for the past seven years.

"They are doing the best they can . . . without charge to local taxpayers," Castellan said.

Polonsky told the council it was "not fully settled in my mind" what the Daly City Transit Systems company wanted or "what we should be settling in this (matter)."

If the new company receives PUC approval for routes, it is merely a matter of granting the bus company a permit, Polonsky explained.

The Superior Court will take up the matter in Redwood City on Monday, Dec. 16.

'Action' Stalls DC Hearings

The City Council in Daly City temporarily settled many of the matters placed before it Monday by shelving them until after the New Year.

Out of six scheduled public hearings, two minor matters dealing with removal of weeds and rubbish were pushed through; three, concerning signs, an appeal by the fire department and the appeal of a woman wanting to operate a taxi in the city, were continued; and one was scratched.

In other action, the council continued the matter concerning bids for construction of an addition to the Lincoln Park Clubhouse.

—Sent back to staff the new water rate schedule proposed by San Francisco.

—Commended Nate Gaggero on his retirement from city service.

—Continued for two weeks the application for a bus service permit requested by Daly City Transit Systems, Inc. The current dispute between the DCTS and Northgate, holders of a Public Utilities Commission franchise to operate in Daly City is now before the PUC. A temporary restraining order forbidding the DCTS to run buses in the community is in the Superior Court, Redwood City.

—Continued the street resurfacing program schedule pending completion of a report from city manager David Rowe.

The hottest issue coming before the council Monday was the worsening transit situation in the city.

Northgate Transit Co., holder of a PUC permit to operate between Daly City and surrounding communities since the mid-1950s, is battling for its life.

The new Daly City Transit Systems, Inc. made up of some 18 dissident bus driver-owners, claims Northgate is not properly serving the people of the community. They have filed a complaint with the PUC, which was scheduled to take up the issue at its meeting in San Francisco Tuesday.

Northgate countered the mass defection by slapping the new company with a temporary restraining order forbidding it to operate on any of the PUC-sanctioned routes and to cease any verbal or physical threats directed against Northgate drivers.

Northgate also brought in some 13 "new" buses from outside the area along with operators.

The council, on the advice of City Atty. Albert Polonsky, decided not to tackle the matter, inasmuch as it is now before the courts and PUC.

Some 175 persons, mostly supporters of the Daly City Transit Systems Inc., packed the council chambers to listen to what they thought was going to be a major discussion of the issue.

Spokesman for the bus drivers — Mateo Mattheus — explained the situation to the council, however, he was told by Councilman Paul Hupf no action would be taken.

Further, Hupf explained, the council has no jurisdiction in the matter because the PUC took away that jurisdiction some 18 years ago.

The proposed new sign ordinance for the city, an issue th has been kicked around for the past year before business groups and civic agencies, again was shelved Monday.

Frank Sanchez, spokesman for Eller Outdoor Advertising asked the council to postpone the ordinance until his company has had time to study it.

Polonsky noted he had changed some of the wording in the ordinance since it had passed the Planning Commission, however, he said the meaning was not altered in any way.

Councilman Hupf, a representative of Foster & Kleiser, Metro-Media, Inc., excused himself from the chambers when the issue was brought up.

The ordinance will again be the subject of a public hearing on Jan. 13, 1975.

An Off-shoot of the Inflationary Spiral

'Nice People' Turning to Shoplifting

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The three hulking policemen surrounded the elderly, bespectacled woman as she was helped into the back seat of the patrol car, her hands manacled.

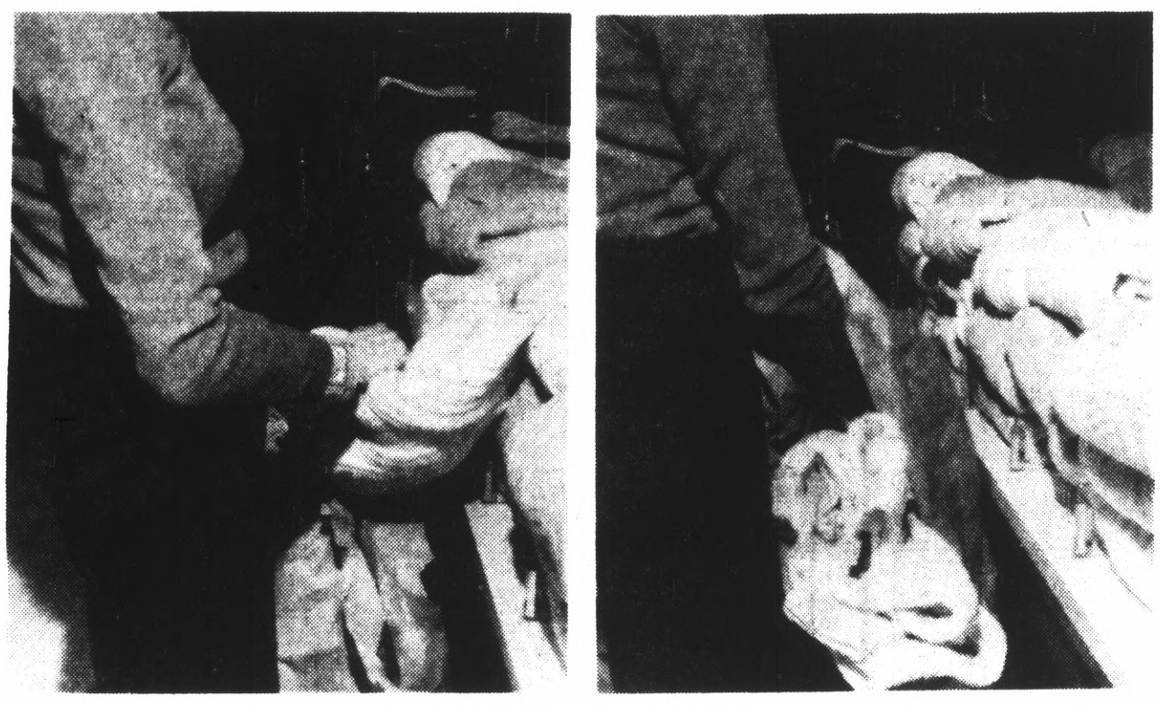
What dastardly crime had this seemingly nice person committed?

It seems the "nice person," a widow residing in the area of the Westlake Shopping Center, had shoplifted in no less than five stores along the mall — everything from foodstuffs to clothing.

"When we got to her, she had every store detective in the center on her trail," one of the arresting officers said.

Each year, during the holiday season, stores are swamped with these amateur shoplifters, experts explain.

Security consultant Robert Levy, of Profit/Loss Controls Company, told The Times that "refund gangs" are on the wane, but crimes committed by Christmas shoplifters is expected to set records this year.



A SHOPLIFTER IN ACTION

Camera depicts simulated technique being watched for in stores along the Peninsula during this Christmas season.

"Refund Gangs" are made up of those persons who steal store items and, using a multitude of schemes, return them for cash or credit.

The "amateur" shoplifter steals for any number of reasons; economic pinch, thrills, or because the person is mentally sick, experts say.

The current inflationary trend, coupled with rising unemployment, may cause an increase in shoplifting this year, merchants and experts suggest.

To cope with this anticipated onslaught, police and merchants are beefing up security.

Daly City detective John Kolbmann, also an expert in store security, says stores in the Bay Area are anticipating a "shrinkage allowance" on their merchandise of one per cent over the norm.

This "norm" is between 3-5 per cent annually nationwide.

Stores use a "shrinkage allowance" to include losses by damage, shoplifting, and pilfering by employes as a means to fix sale prices.

In other words, whatever is lost to shoplifters or till-tapping is passed on to consumers.

There will be an average estimated $1 million lost in the next four weeks in major shopping centers and business districts in the Bay Area if the one per cent figure is true, police estimate.

What puzzles police, however, is not so much the shoplifting.

Rather, it is the bystanders who do just that — stand by and watch a person steal.

"They don't want to get involved. They rationalize the store has a lot of money and these are, after all, inflationary times," Kolbmann said.

Kolbman said he has actually stolen items in front of other shoppers who stood and watched.

Levy echoes Kolbmann's charges.

"I tried to 'burn' a school teacher one time and he ignored me and went about his stealing," Levy said.

The term "burning" is used by security persons when they want to make their presence known to potential shoplifters.

Levy failed to discourage the man, who was a Marin schoolteacher with a sick wife and several children, and he finally arrested him.

"He was a pretty lousy thief," Levy recalls.

Who are these middle income shoplifters? What do they look like? Levy and Kolbmann were asked.

Both said they are "anybody and everybody," from teenagers to elderly women.

"They could be the people next door," Kolbmann explained.

The middle income shoplifter is an off-shoot of the inflationary spiral, it was explained.

"At Christmastime, these usually honest people, for one reason or another, shoplift.

"They see advertisements of merchandize they would like to have, but can't afford. So they steal," Levy said.

The year-round headache is the drug addicts who steal; the so-called "lower criminal types," Levy said.

Daly City Mayor's Kin Killed by Electrical Wire

The brother-in-law of Daly City Mayor McRobert Stewart was fatally injured Thursday after being struck by a downed 12,000 volt power line in the back yard of his home.

Walter Albert Miller, 53, of 33 Huntington Drive was electrocuted as he tried to move a broken and arcing power line that had fallen into his yard from overhead poles about 6:30 p.m.

Apparently Miller had grabbed a rain-soaked piece of wood and attempted to move the wire away from his house when he was knocked to the ground by a shock.

The "hot" wire fell across his chest, investigators said.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital shortly before 7 p.m. by Dr. A Clark.

Miller had suffered several third degree burns on his body from the sparking wire.

Along with his wife, Helen, daughter Lydia, father-in-law Ralph Stewart, and a family friend, Michael Hurtado, Miller had just sat down to eat supper when the lights suddenly dimmed.

He went downstairs to check the fuse box, according to Stewart, and a few minutes later the family heard a scream.

Stewart rushed to the backyard and saw Miller writhing on the ground with the wire across his body.

He grabbed a length of garden hose and was attempting to remove the wire when firemen arrived.

It was learned that Miller had called the fire department after seeing the sparking wire snapping around outside.

Fireman Garry Baker used a pike pole to hold the deadly wire while other firemen removed the Miller's body.

What caused the overhead wire to break in the first place is still under investigation, police said.

High winds had battered the city the night before.

But whether the storm had weakened the wires was not known.

Mayor Stewart was notified of the accident minutes before he was scheduled to leave for the annual Daly City Commissioner's Christmas party.

He appeared briefly at the dinner with his wife, Nanda, and excused himself.

Man Killed by Police Officer

A 37-year-old Pacifica man was shot three times after throwing an ax at a police sergeant early Tuesday.

The victim, John Smith of 550 Lakeview Drive, died an hour later at Mary's Help Hospital.

A Pacifica Police Department press release stated that Sgt. Antonio Conte was narrowly missed by the ax, and was unhurt.

The authorities said Conte had responded to a 4:10 a.m. call in which a woman complained that her husband had beaten her with an ax.

The police report indicated that Sgt. Conte, after announcing himself several times, entered the Smith residence, and saw Smith sitting in the chair, his back to Conte.

Suddenly, Smith stood up, screamed, spun around and threw the ax at Conte, the report stated, and Conte then fired three shots, all three striking Smith. The fatal shot pierced his neck.

Four Held In City Drug Raid

A combined San Francisco-Daly City police narcotics unit raided an Edgeworth Avenue apartment Dec. 3 in Daly City and arrested one woman and three men on a variety of drug charges.

Daly City police said they received a "tip" on one of the occupants of the apartment from San Francisco narcotics officers.

Arrested in the raid were Ben Paul Wilmer, 22, of 7700 Mission St., Daly City; Edward R. Amundsen, 22, of 1145 Edgeworth, Daly City; Patrick Aaron Wagner, 19, of Berkeley, and; Jeri A. Eudey, 19, also of 1145 Edgeworth.

Investigating officer George Quinn said Wilmer was charged with possession of marijuana, possession of dangerous drugs and possession of heroin.

Amundsen was charged with possession of marijuana, cultivation of marijuana and possession of heroin.

Wagner was charged with possession of marijuana and possession of dangerous drugs, while Miss Eudey was booked for possession of marijuana, possession of heroin and cultivation of marijuana

JESD's Gloomy Financial Future

The prospect of no salary hikes, increased class sizes and program cutbacks apparently will be facing the Jefferson Elementary School District now that a tax election to raise the needed revenue won't be held.

The decision not to go to the voters was made at the Dec. 4 board meeting in which the trustees voted 3-2 against a recommendation of a citizens tax committee to place a measure on the March 4 ballot asking to increase the amount that can be spent per pupil by $238 for the next three years.

It would have boosted the revenue limit, which is based on the average daily attendance (ADA), from $1,051 to $1,289. The tax rate would have been increased $1 from $2.27 to $3.27 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Opposing the election were Board President Beverly Forrester, David Parker, and James Cranna. Voting for it were trustees Dorothy Adams and Al Schwarzbach.

Parker said he wasn't trying to demean the tax committee by his negative vote, but that the place to go for the needed money he said is the legislature.

Mrs. Forrester agreed, and admitted after the meeting that she didn't think the Daly City voters would have approved the measure.

Meanwhile, Schwarzbach said he favored the tax election, saying, "It is incumbent to make the community aware that we are faced with a dire economic situation. They (residents) should have the right to decide the issue," he said.

Mrs. Adams also said she didn't think any tax increase would be welcomed, but added that without it, cuts would have to be made that the children can ill afford.

The outcome of the vote was surprising since the trustees were aware that the alternative was a gloomy financial situation that would have a direct impact on the district's personnel, programs and classes.

Though the successful election wouldn't have been a cure-all, it would have helped buy time until the state legislators took the steps to alleviate the money crunch affecting many of California's school districts.

Of course, it still was debatable whether the district could have mounted a strong enough campaign to

Mother Held for Murder Of 8-Month-Old Son

A Daly City mother was arrested and charged with murder Sunday following the death of her 8-month-old son at Mary's Help Hospital.

Detective Terry Hanebeck said the woman, Linda Esther Oberlin, 28, of 601 Niantic Ave. Apt. 5, brought her son, Scott, suffering massive head injuries, to the hospital Saturday.

The child died shortly after noon Sunday in the facility's intensive care unit following surgery, police said.

Hanebeck and Detective Keith Warren are continuing their investigation today.

It was believed the injuries were inflicted on the child when he was thrown to the floor, police said.

The mother is employed by a Mission Street, Daly City car dealer, it was learned.

DC Sanitation Plant Expansion Under Study

The Daly City Planning Commission was scheduled to discuss issuance of a use permit to the North San Mateo County Sanitation District for its proposed plant expansion Tuesday night.

If approved, the district then would give the green light to purchase two small parcels of land adjacent to Westlake Park at the corner of Lake Merced and John Daly Avenues.

District manager David Gehre explained there are several bits and pieces — mostly hill and brush covered — adjacent to the park, owned by private agencies and the city of Daly City.

Purchase of the desired properties is contingent on issuance of the use permit by the commission

The brush covered slopes are now frequented by youths.

There is trash and garbage scattered throughout the area, city officials note.

Plans of the district call for construction and complete landscaping of the area, thereby concealing the structure from view, it was understood.

A driveway will also be made into the area to provide for park maintenance vehicles to gain access.

gain support of the voters. The recent Nov. 5 elections in which six other county school revenue measures were defeated was not encouraging.

Even with that belt tightening message by the voters, though, San Mateo Union High, San Bruno Parks and South San Francisco Unified School districts among other county districts, recently have decided to try the polls once more.

But for JESD, there will be no waiting to hear the voters speak again. The trustees know they won't have the additional monies, and so must immediately prepare to bite the bullet.

Business Manager John Lynch, when contacted later, warned that the "cuts are going to be felt." Lynch said the budget for 1975-76 won't include any salary increase and will leave a deficit of $252,563. The deficit will wipe out all but $47,437 of the district's current $300,000 reserve. That sum has been maintained by the board in the past as an emergency fund for unexpected expenditures.

The remainder of that reserve would then be dissolved in 1976-77, when the deficit would climb to $978,984. It would mushroom to $1,951,870 the next school year.

As a result, Lynch said the district would be considering where to make the cuts after the first of the year, with the board having to establish its spending priorities.

The dismal financial picture drawn by Lynch was similar to how he explained the situation during the summer. Based mostly on Lynch's budget projection, the trustees decided then to form a citizens tax committee to study the possibility of the election.

The board hinted at putting a measure on last November's ballot, but postponed that push when it was agreed that more time was required to gather community backing.

Finally, the committee voted 11-1 to recommend the revenue increase to the board at last week's (Dec. 4) meeting. Committee Cairman Jack Hart told the board that the measure was needed "in order that we can continue the current activities at the schools' present level."

The lone dissenting member of the committee was Maxine Abe, also a district personnel commissioner.

Mrs. Abe questioned whether a majority of the committee actually favored the proposal, since it had 30 members originally. She told the trustees that a vote taken at a meeting before the 11-1 decision was only 10-6 in favor.

Mrs. Abe concurred that the extra revenue was needed, but said it was up to the legislature to find the method of providing it.

As for the election, Mrs. Abe said it was the wrong solution. "It's like asking for a box of band aids to put on a severed artery," she quipped.

Mrs. Abe's comments raised the point of what became of the full committee and whether a recommendation supported by most of the 30 members would have swayed the trustees.

Hart said that all the members were notified of the meetings, and some apparently just lost interest.

Lynch, who worked with the committee, said "a majority felt there was a very definite need for the election." He attributed the dropouts possibly to the "psychology of the times" with Watergate, inflation and taxes, plus a fear of losing the election.

Lynch and district Superintendent Herbert Hemington both have seemed supportive of the tax measure, but neither made any comments when Hart presented the proposal to the board.

When asked why, Lynch admitted that such a presentation is many times made by the administration in other school districts, but that his direction was to give committee members the facts and let them make up their own minds.

"We were being cautious," Lynch said. "We didn't want to take the role of saying you're going to vote for it or else."

SSF Forms Panel on Yule Lights

South San Francisco officials say municipal holiday lighting is not being eliminated this year, but an Energy Conservation Committee is being formed to save power.

The commission will be comprised of local civic leaders, businessmen, residents, and representatives of police, fire and PG&E.

Seasonal lighting extends to street decorations, a Christmas tree on Sign Hill and City Hall, landmarks visible for miles around. Lighting will be turned off at 11 p.m. instead of midnight. Last year, most lighting was eliminated.

Mike Wilson, city administrative assistant, said the program is being conducted in cooperation with the PG&E, which has become conservation-minded.

Plans for Remodeling Schools Presented

Jefferson Union High School officials currently are working with an architect to develop plans for the building projects at Terra Nova and Serramonte High Schools.

James Coke of Corwin Booth and Associated Architects presented preliminary plans to the board of trustees Dec. 3, and said he would be back in a month to ask approval of the drawings.

The estimated cost for the plans is about $1.7 million. The Serramonte project was priced at $1,199 and the Terra Nova work at $529,000.

At Serramonte, plans include completing the boys' and girls' locker rooms and a girls' gymnasium, remodeling of the administration building, and the using of the school's open space areas for the addition of eight classrooms.

The Terra Nova plans call for a new business, two science and three general classrooms, plus a shop and the converting of space to make more room available for the student store.

Coke emphasized that there could be changes in the plans since he was still talking to the school staffs.

The need for additional classrooms at both schools is seen as necessary because Serramonte will be drifting away from modular scheduling, thereby requiring more class space, and Terra Nova's enrollment is forecasted to rise.

In another matter, the board apparently laid to rest a recent hubbub over complaints by some parents that autobiographies written by freshman students as a class assignment at Westmoor became part of the student's personal file.

Trustee Jane Powell first brought the issue up at the Nov. 19 meeting, saying that she had received objections that the papers went into the students "cumulative folders" without their knowledge.

Board President John Sloane said the practice seemed to be an invasion of privacy.

The matter was tabled and brought back to the board so it could be determined whether any action would be taken.

During the discussion, Supt. Edward Morgan said he never had any complaints from parents, and that the autobiography was helpful because it let the counselors know something about the student's ambitions.

Finally, Sloane offered a motion that the administration be directed to notify the school that the autobiography is not to be put in the folder. But the motion died for lack of a second.

Mrs. Powell then made a motion that would ban the autobiography from being written, but that didn't get a second either.

At that point, the board gave up making motions, and Sloan closed the matter by saying that it indicated the board was still concerned, yet divided.

Four-City Agreement

New Agency Born in the N. County

A new North County agency was born last Wednesday.

Meeting in Pacifica, four police chiefs formally organized the Northern San Mateo County Pre-Arraignment Detention Facility (PDF).

Daly City Police Chief David A. Hansen was elected chairman of the new governing board; South San Francisco Police Chief James Datzman, vice chairman, and Pacifica Police Chief Mel Nelson, secretary.. The fourth chief present was San Bruno's Russ Cunningham.

Documents setting up a joint powers agreement, authorizing insurance and creation of special letterheads and lease of a paddywagon and jail from Daly City, were approved.

Chief Hansen announced hiring of a jail manager, Harry Smith, a retired marine with experience with military prisons.

"By the time of our Dec. 17 meeting, we'll have the rest hired," he vowed. The four men and three women will go through training sessions in Sacramento before assuming their new posts on Jan. 1.

Hansen asked Daly City Asst. City Manager Ray Lutsinger about two more jailers under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), and was assured that Daly City would channel some of its federal grant — part of a special program to fight unemployment — to the PDF.

Smith was named liaison officer to the county.

The PDF is being set up under a $97,000 federal grant.

The four cities hope that if they can show that money is being saved and more service given, that the county will build a full-service sheriff's facility near the North County Courthouse in South San Francisco, to include a pre-arraignment detention facility.

The new agency will benefit each of the four cities in different ways.

Pacifica, its force spread thinly over a large area, has a team of officers taking every prisoner to the County Jail in Redwood City, and Pacifica loses the service of one police car.

San Bruno has its own jail, which required considerable staff time in obtaining food, booking, fingerprinting, photographing and otherwise dealing with prisoners. San Bruno also ties up manpower taking prisoners to court.

South San Francisco already has been using the Daly City jail on a rental basis since its own was condemned by the state several months ago.

The new project will enable the establishment of an Own Recognizance project. Prisoners without funds could be released on their own recognizance if found trustworthy.

This project is being set up under agreement with the County Bar Association.

Big Loss to Vandalism In Laguna School

The Laguna Salada School District suffered a $5,642.02 loss in vandalism and theft in 36 different incidents between July 1 and Sept. 30, it was learned at the board meeting Thursday night.

The loss spread throughout 13 schools, the library center and the district office, was nearly five times as much as the $1,214 total accumulated over the same three-month period last year.

Hardest hit was Westview with $2.677 in damage and theft, the bulk of it coming on July 21 when vandals did extensive damage in two storerooms, several classrooms and other areas.

The culprits were found in four of the cases, with the district billing those responsible for a sum of $498.

Besides Westview, the other high losses were reported at district office ($695), Cabrillo ($609.45), and the library center ($500.82).

The vandalism report, compiled by business manager Noah Reese, showed that the damages went far beyond a few rocks thrown through some windows.

The included a faucet ripped off a wall, egg yolk on the ceiling tiles of a boys' bathroom, 12 smashed bales of hay strewn around, and some pet food tossed around a lobby.

Stolen items included a clock radio, calculator, typewriter and an adding machine.

Heat 2 tbls. olive oil in a heavy iron pot, add one half slice of bacon cut into pieces, remove when crisp. Dust meat with flour and brown on all sides in this fat and oil. Add one medium chopped onion. When it begins to brown, add strained marinade. Cover pot tightly and let simmer over low heat some 3 hours, or until tender. No Funds for Arts In San Mateo County

By GEORGE GOLDING

Sums of tax money totalling $429,709 were granted to 135 performing arts groups all over the state in November by the California Arts Commission. None of that money came to San Mateo County.

Why?

San Mateo's State Sen. Arlen Gregorio is known as "a father of the arts" because he sponsored legislation that provided this money, yet his voters got none.

Why?

The answers range from "there wasn't enough money" to accusations of favoritism, politics, and conflict of interest.

Neither the chairman of the California Arts Commission, nor his grants program director, nor anyone else who was interviewed could explain just why the 12 applications from San Mateo County performing arts groups ended up in the pile of 311 discards, rather than among the shorter stack of 135 approvals.

William Kent, chairman of the Arts Commission, said:

"I really don't know why, specifically. Either we didn't get applications or they weren't on the priority list."

The priority list was established by a series of panels on dance, music and theatre.

Members were "people well known in these fields and respected," said Leslie Olmstead of the Arts Commission staff.

The panelists approved $1,417,233 worth of projects for 151 organizations, and the Commission cut the numbers down to fit the money available.

Garry Gordon, grants program manager for the State Commission, said the panels "do the very best they can to be objective and unbiased.

"The problem is totally that there wasn't enough money. In no way is this a deliberate thing."

The panels, he said, are made up of five leaders in each field, whose job is to spread around the money according to "quality, ethnic, geographic, and variety considerations."

"One of our greatest concerns," he said, "is that people will think this is a value judgment, that we just don't think them good enough. This is not so. The money just isn't there."

Senator Gregorio and William Nemoyten, executive director of the San Mateo County Arts Council, agree that one of the "major problems is the lack of local support."

People without funds of their own are in no position to apply for matching fund grants, they admit, and San Mateo County artists may see the situation worsen if state allocations improve as expected without major increases in funds from local sources.

People close to the State Commission suggest that since there was too little money to go around, San Mateo might have been left out because it is close to cultural San Francisco and therefore "has less need."

"The basic reason," said Chairman Kent, "is money. We asked the legislature for $2 million, and we got cut back to $1 million. We had $100,000 less to distribute than we had last year."

Ten grants, totalling $23,500 went to dance groups in San Francisco, six grants totalling $31,452 went to music groups there, and five grants totalling $26,589 went to San Francisco theatre groups.

Palo Alto received two grants, and several other allotments went to performing arts groups in San Jose and other Santa Clara County cities.

Helen Beyer, executive director of the San Mateo County Chamber Music Society, who made three applications for funds totalling $7,384, was critical.

"There may be a conflict of interest with people on that Performing Arts Committee," she said. "Milton Salkind, director of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music, a fine concert artist and pianist, was on that committee. They are supposed to not vote on their own applications, but there is nothing to prevent them from voting against a similar application from someone else.

(The San Francisco Conservatory was awarded a $4,837 grant.)

"Since the Conservatory has been sending its students down into this county for performances, there may be another conflict.

Perhaps "because of the stand Sen. Gregorio has taken in attacking the membership of the California Arts Commission and saying it hasn't been representative; we are being penalized because we're in his domain."

"We were quite disappointed. It cost us $50 in postage and copying, and an entire month preparing the application. It just doesn't seem worthwhile.

"We are the first professional performing arts organization to come into being in San Mateo County."

Dr. Marietta Tassos, director of the San Mateo County Choral Society, said:

"The small struggling groups just starting out are the ones that need it. We have been going three years now, all of us, the Choral Society and the Chamber Music Society, and one or two others, and it sure would be nice to have a little cash.

"Maybe if we started

Youngsters Score Well in State Tests

By JOHN HORGAN

Public school children in San Mateo County scored well in the state's 1973-74 testing program.

Generally, youngsters in this county did as well or better than they were predicted to do, according to a complex set of background data which provide a range of expected scores for each district in the state.

Such a system of reporting allows each district to get individual treatment.

Rather than comparing just the scores themselves, the state's method permits an analysis based on socio-economic background and a wealth of other factors.

Thus, since a place like Hillsborough is blessed with a particularly helpful set of socio-economic conditions, it is expected that children from that city's schools will score very high, among the highest in the entire state.

But, children in schools in East Palo Alto, because of less favorable factors in that community, are not expected to perform as well.

However, some of the results of the latest tests are revealing. Some districts in this county are performing better than anticipated. Others are not. Most are scoring within or above anticipated ranges.

In fact, in 23 districts here, there were only 17 scores which fell below expected ranges. The rest of the 123 scores were either above or within those ranges.

Among the county's elementary districts, the best performances were turned in by the Millbrae School District, the Brisbane School District and the San Mateo City School District.

Millbrae recorded scores above the predicted ranges five out of six times. In the five tests which were above, the total was 55. Millbrae students finished higher than predicted by two in Grade 3 Reading, by seven in Grade 6 Reading, by 15 in Grade 6 Language, by 23 in Grade 6 Spelling and by six in Grade 6 Mathematics. The only other test given to elementary children, Grade 2 Reading, netted Millbrae a rating of "within" because the students scored within a predicted range.

Brisbane children received above ratings in five or six testing categories. Their total above their ranges was 38. San Mateo, which also scored above anticipated ranges in five of six tests, totalled 18 above.

Two districts scored poorly: the Ravenswood City School District and the Bayshore School District.

Ravenswood was rated below expected ranges in five of six tests. The total score below for the five was 68. Bayshore students fell below expected ranges in three of the six categories. Their total below was 36. They also finished above one range in Grade 2 Reading by five.

As usual, children in the Hillsborough City School District found themselves in the awkward position of possessing such high expected ranges that even superior scores failed to bring them more than ratings of "within."

Hillsborough youngsters recorded the highest percentile rankings in the county in the six tests, from 96 to 99. Since that was what was expected of them, they received no "above" performances.

The performances of the county's high school seniors were mixed. All seniors were tested in four areas: Reading, Language, Spelling and Mathematics.

Two districts scored above expected ranges in all four tests. The Sequoia Union High School District totalled 60 above in the four and the San Mateo Union High School District wasn't far behind with 53 above in all four.

Seniors in the Jefferson Union High School District scored below expected ranges in two of four tests. Cabrillo Unified School District seniors fell within expected ranges in all four.

The worst scores were recorded in the La Honda-

Beating Fatal to SSF Girl

George A. Ricks, 37, of San Francisco, was arraigned in San Francisco Municipal Court Thursday on a charge of murdering a 19-year-old South San Francisco woman, Debra Pera.

Ricks was alleged to have kicked, punched and whipped Miss Pera, Sunday night, in his San Francisco apartment.

Ricks originally was arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, but was rebooked on the murder charge, when Miss Pera died Wednesday at San Francisco General Hospital.

A deputy district attorney said he planned to take the case before the Grand Jury within a week and a half.

Miss Pera was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Pera of 738 Baden Ave., South San Francisco. Services were held Friday at the Nauman anjld Lincoln Mortuary in South San Francisco, and she was interred in the family plot in Arbuckle, Calif., according to the mortuary.

Attorney Sentenced

Frank L. Magnani, the South San Francisco attorney who faces disbarment because of his conviction of burglary last month, last week was sentenced to perform 180 hours of public service work.

The probation department and Prosecutor Stanley B. Poling had urged San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Frank B. Blum to sentence Magnani to at least 60 days in jail.

Poling was adamant in his opposition to Judge Blum's sentence, as well as the judge's decision to reduce the crime to a misdemeanor.

The prosecutor, in essence, told Blum his sentence was not fair, hinting that Magnani received preferential treatment because he is an attorney.

Judge Blum has drawn criticism in some quarters because during Magnani's trial he acknowledged the attorney's reputation "for truth, honesty and integrity."

No Funds

screaming loud enough, it would do some good, but I don't like to work that way.

Other San Mateo County groups which applied and did not receive, are:

San Mateo's parks and recreation department which asked for $13,000 to fund a theatre group; Daly City, which sought $10,000 for a theatre; the El Camino Youth Symphony Association of Redwood City, which asked for $2,300.

The California Bach Society of Redwood City which asked for $28,080 in general funding and $8,080 to set up four concerts in January and four more in March; The Crestmont Conservatory of Music, San Mateo, which asked for $8,100; the "Music at the Gallery" program at Periwinkle Gallery in Pacifica, $1,000; and the Society for Advancement of Religious Music, Redwood City, which sought $5,300.

The November grants were all for "performing arts" groups; dance, music and theatre.

In the spring, further state grants will be made to visual arts and communications groups, and to art service organizations.

Leslie Olmstead of the California Arts Commission staff said the division into two groups of grants was made after last year's first tangle with dividing up a major fund

DC Photo Stand Robbed

A man and his female companion were arrested by Broadmoor police last Wednesday shortly after they allegedly robbed a Daly City Photo-Mat drive-in store of some $170.

Witnesses to the holdup of the Skyline Place photo processing stand gave police a description of the car along with the license plate number, police said.

The robbery is the latest in a series of similar incidents plaguing th the In recent days, several such stores have been the victim of armed holdups.

At 8:24 p.m., Broadmoor police officers Al Nichas and K. Nocentini spotted the suspect car entering Interstate Highway 280 at the Washington Street on-ramp.

The two officers followed the vehicle northbound for about a mile before pulling it to the side of the road.

Arrested and charged with armed robbery was John A. Beilhes, 23, and Jody Boyd, 19, both of 298 Miriam Street, Daly City.

Police said no weapons were found. However all the cash taken in the alleged holdup was recovered.

Pescadero Unified School District. There, seniors scored below their ranges in all four tests. The total below was a staggering 185.

According to Donald Rimac, principal at the district's only high school, Pescadero High School, the statistical sample was so small 31 seniors in 1973-74) that the results might be insignificant.

"There could be something wrong with the statistics," he explained. "It's difficult to get a true assessment with such a small number. We know the results are not acceptable. It was an unusual class. There were a lot of factors which brought the scores down. I can predict that this year's seniors will score better than last year's. And next year's seniors will score better than this year's. I know all of the students. The nature, the flavor, of each class is different."

Rimac, who is resigning his position effective Dec. 20 for a post in Los Angeles, said he has discussed the test results with his district's board of trustees already. However, he added that he was not aware of the state's practice of predicting certain ranges in each test. Nor had he seen these latest results, he said.

In Grade 12 Reading, seniors in that district scored in the bottom 18 per cent in the state. Eighty-two per cent of the state's seniors scored better than that. In addition, according to the district's own set of socio-economic factors, it was expected that the seniors would have scored better than that, by at least 17 points on that percentile rank.

Airport Noise Study Gets OK

An appropriation for staffing and equipping noise monitoring stations on and around San Francisco International Airport and hiring of a management firm to guide expansion work were approved Dec. 3 by San Francisco Airports Commission.

The commissioners approved $33,448 for personnel and equipment to provide the noise monitoring stations required by California's anti-noise law of 1972.

The airport has previously won delays in state activation of that law as it applies here, because equipment was not available, but aides report the devices will be ready for installation this next spring.

Noise monitoring operators will be hired to oversee installation and operation, as well as conduct initial testing and calibration, it was reported.

The commission approved a $1.25 million contract with Sverdrup and Parcel/Stone, Marraccini and Patterson, to oversee airport expansion for the coming year.

The joint venture's engineering and management group's responsibility will include airport parking garage and north terminal work.

Coast Teachers Complain They Are Being Ignored

Fifty members of the major Laguna Salada teachers' organization jammed the school board meeting room Thursday night to complain that the district's teachers were being ignored in key policy decisions affecting them.

The Laguna Salada Education Association had gripes on the topics of teacher-administration communications, widespread rumors that a school may be closed, class size and the length of the school day.

Eleven members of the group, some appearing highly emotional and others just plain angry, rose before the trustees to speak on the four topics.

LSEA president Erika Rigling said the strong feelings expressed by the teachers had been brewing since the beginning of the school year.

The tensions apparently were heightened by comments attributed to Supt. James Brien, one of which the teachers say was derogatory toward them, and because of a rumor circulating throughout the district that one of the schools may be closed.

The Brien comments came from the minutes of an Oct. 9 administrative council meeting, dealing with a "progress report" on the "superintendent's visits to schools."

In describing Brien's reaction to the visit, the report says, "He (Brien) has been pleased with what he has seen so far and stated that while there were no budding geniuses, by and large the level of teaching in the district is very good."

The teachers have taken the "budding geniuses" remark to refer to them, although it is not clear whether Brien was actually referring to the children. But either way, Ms. Rigling says it is offending.

A second statement made prior to that says, "He (Brien) also has sent a confidential note to the principal that is not to be shared with any staff member, as he has listed his reactions as he's gone through the classrooms and in some instances has been very candid in his remarks."

LSEA members understood that to mean that the superintendent was concealing an evaluation of a teacher or teachers that the individual evaluated has a right to see.

Brien was not at the meeting. He was at a joint conference of the Association of California School Administrators and the California Schools Boards Association in Anaheim.

Ann Shea, a sixth grade teacher at Oddstad, said of the "budding genius" quote, "What kind of trust and cooperation (between teachers and administrators) can be built up on this type of evaluation? Such action does nothing but lower teacher morale."

On the school closing matter, Kay Sweeney, her voice quivering with emotion, told the trustees that it was offensive to have to come and say these things at a public meeting. But, Ms. Sweeney said the rumors were traveling quickly and that the teachers have not been given a chance to speak on the issue.

"The teachers should have been made part of the planning process," she said.

Miss Sweeney has been teaching for 10 years.

Marco T. Dimas, a parent with two children attending Westview, said he heard that school would be closed. Dimas' comment that the parents there would fight any shutdown was met with a roar of approval from the teachers.

Board president Dale Buettgenback said he was "flabbergasted" at the association's action, and warned them not to "hit the panic switch." As for the Westview closing, Buettgenback joked that he has heard similar rumors at varying times about all of the district's schools.

In a serious vein, though, Buettgenback said, "There has been no statement by this board that we are going to close any school."

Buettgenback seemed to irk some of the teachers, setting off an avalanche of groans when he told them to take their grievances through the proper procedures established — through the administration.

Another teacher, Steve Patterson, responded that the administration had not given them enough respect, which was the reason they all went to the board. But, Patterson said, "I feel like you're saying that it's a problem, but that it's not what you want to hear."

Pacifica Merchants Eye Manor Center Refurbishing

Steps were taken in a four-way meeting in Pacifica Dec. 3 to refurbish aging Pacific Manor Shopping Center.

Meeting were representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, City of Pacifica staff, the Manor Merchants Association, and six of the 14 owners of the center. A committee will work with the association in drawing up plans for design and financing the project.

The center is made up of 42 businesses, mostly small independents. It houses a theater, food market, a variety store, the Central Post Office, and a weekly newspaper.

Jim Nesbitt, manager of Security Savings, showed slides of litter, deterioration and traffic congestion.

"Sometimes," said Chamber President Nick Gust, "shopping center owners neglect to put back some of their profits for upkeep."

Gust said the chamber helped put the meeting together as a part of a program to get Pacificans to shop at home.

The program, he said, includes upgrading local centers and offering better service.

"Most businesses cannot give better prices," Gust said, "but all businesses can give better service."

Robert Chang, an East Bay architect, described what can be done to remodel a center. He said Pacific Manor had many assets, including a unique location. He suggested a renovation study.

City Manager Don Weidner said the city would check building code violations, but wanted to act only in cooperation with the merchants and owners. He said he preferred the city to keep out of the center's planning and urged the owners to maintain the center so the city would never need to intervene.

Two major renovation projects already are under way.

The Seavue Theater's owner is changing its facade and marquee and dividing the theater into twin movie houses.

Joe Chaparella of the Brentwood Market reported that he has already invested nearly $200,000 in a projected remodeling project.

Rob Robinson of the city's planning department showed slides comparing the bleak appearance of the center with the Carlmont Shopping Center in Belmont.

'Energy' Class Set In SSF

The South San Francisco Recreation Department will offer a class, "Meeting Our Energy Requirements."

The two class sessions will deal with the energy outlook for the United States and Northern California and how energy can be practically conserved by consumers in both business and the home.

The class will meet Jan. 13 and 20, from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Harry Bain, coordinator of environmental information for Pacific Gas and Electric Co., plans two slide presentations — one on the environment and the other on conservation — and will discuss the problems and the scarcities of oil and natural gas, rising fuel prices, and the feasibility of nuclear power for riding out the energy problem over the next few years.

The class is offered free by the Recreation Department. Registration, however, is required, since the class size is limited.

Yule Gifts for Gardeners

By IVA NEWMAN

Nothing pleases a hobbiest more than getting a gift that ties in with his hobby. A gardener is a hobbiest regardless of whether he collects one type of plant such as roses, orchids or rhododendrons or just likes a bit of everything he can squeeze into his planting area.

Now, with so much stress being placed on the environment many gardeners are seeking ways to add wild flowers and native plants to the garden. Given the right location and the right plant these wildlings settle down and make themselves right at home. One of the best ways to help a gardener or a homeowner carry out some of the back to nature ideas is to give a Clyde Robin Seed Catalog. Clyde Robin, like his father before him, collects, catalogs and sells California natives. The catalog, which costs $1, is available from Clyde Robin Seed Co., Inc., P.O. Box 2855, Castro Valley, Calif. 94546. This catalog lists some 1,500 varieties of seed, over 150 transplants, 36 pull color pictures plus three pages of when, how and where to sow the seeds.

Another catalog that we consider indispensable is the Wayside Gardens Spring Catalog. This catalog is very informative, complete and up-to-date in every respect and, in our estimation, it has no equal anywhere in the world. Every page carries from two to four color illustrations and every section has good, workable cultural directions. It also has one of the most complete lists of new plants as well as the best of the older introductions of any catalog that we receive. It covers perennials, ground covers, plants for shade, shrubs plus standard or treeform shrubs, flowering and ornamental trees, shade trees, vines and climbers, roses, fruits, nuts and herbs, bulbs and lilies, annual plants, seeds, vegetables, annuals, herbs, plus several pages of garden equipment and supplies. This catalog is available free with an order of $15 or more. Copies also are available for $2 from The Wayside Gardens Co., Mentor, Ohio 44060. We add this catalog to our garden library each year and we are sure you will do the same.

Rosarians

Amateur rose growers never tire of thumbing through rose catalogs. Here are five that will cause local rosarians to have "daydreams." All of these are free with just a written request and they make wonderful stocking stuffers: Armstrong Rose & Garden Catalog which features over 100 varieties of roses that they grow themselves plus several types of bulbs, ornamental shrubs and fruit trees, which are produced right here in California is available from Armstrong Nurseries, Inc., P.O. Box 473, Ontario, Calif. 91761.

The Jackson & Perkins catalog has a large section devoted to roses which is natural as they are the largest rose growers in the world with an immense field at Lompoc, Calif. They also feature a wide selection of bulbs. In fact, their selection is so large they get out a special catalog in full color on bulbs. Both their regular and their bulb catalog may be had by writing to Jackson & Perkins Co., Medford, Ore. 97501.

Miniature roses have caught on with a bang. These are delightful little replicas of the big hybrid teas and they can be grown in pots on a tiny balcony or they can be grown in the garden where they will need only about one square foot of space. We have two good commercial rose growers who specialize in miniature roses. Ralph Moore, Sequoia Nursery, 2519 E. Noble Ave., Visalia, Calif. 93277, is a world renowned hybridizer of miniature roses. He gets out a small catalog and a color folder that are free.

Mini-Roses, P.O. Box 9255, Station A, Dallas, Tex. 75208, gets out a folder that gives a good description of the 150 varieties he grows. We have found the roses from this company to be well-branched, clean and sturdy.

Two more catalogs are joys to browse through: Geranium Guide put out by Wilson Bros., Floral Co., Inc., Roachdale, Ind. 46172, features geraniums. Practically all of the listings are shown in full color so you can tell exactly what you will get when you order. This is especially useful to local gardeners as it will help identify the plants they have grown from slips given to them by friends and it will prevent them from ordering something they already have, when what they want is something different. This catalog will be of help when entering the flower shows and the Fiesta as the schedules list all geraniums by type and this catalog lists them under their correct type. It is free for the asking.

Camellias and Azaleas

Nuccio's Nurseries, 3555 Chaney Trail, Altadena, Calif. 91001, are the finest camellia growers that we know. They also put out a small line of azaleas. This catalog gives a comprehensive coverage of camellia culture. Each camellia listed has its blooming season denoted by E—Early (September to November); M—Mid-season (December to February); L—Late (March to April). This helps select varieties that will give camellia color in the garden all winter long. This catalog is also free for the asking.

Park's Flower Book, put out by the Geo. W. Park Seed Co., Inc., Greenwood, S.C. 29647, is the catalog I turn to when readers ask where they can get seed of this or that vegetable or flower. It lists practically all of the new vegetables and flowers and the descriptions include the honors the various seeds receive. They are the distributors for Goldsmith Seeds, Inc. of Gilroy, Calif. Their Flower Book for 1974 listed Dianthus "Magic Charms" the 1974 All-America winner, and "Queen of Hearts" a 1974 All-America Silver Medal, and All Britian Trials winner. They also list Goldsmith's "Snowflake" the 1973 Fleuroselect winner (trial grounds throughout Northern and Western Europe). We have grown all of these winning plants and found them even better and more exciting than the catalog description implied. Some of our local growers grow these prize winners for the bedding plant trade. They are worth shopping for.

REVIEWER HONORED

Friends of the Daly City Library and their guests gathered at a no-host luncheon at the Ranch Inn, Serramonte Shopping Center, to honor Mrs. Frank W. Hosmer Jr., president of The Forum Club and literary section chairman of the California Club who had given a review of books for holiday giving for them at the John Daly Library. Mrs. H. C. Kineaid, book review chairman, arranged the event. Mrs. John M. Connolly is president of The Friends. Pictured (from left, seated) are Mrs. Kincaid and Mrs. Frank W. Hosmer Jr., and (from left, standing) Adrienne Savetnick, John Daly, librarian; Mrs. John Connolly, and Mrs. U. R. Kendree, library trustee.

Rose Society Sets Christmas Dinner

The San Mateo County Rose Society will hold its annual Christmas dinner and installation of 1975 elected officers Dec. 14 at the Shadows Restaurant in San Bruno.

The no-host cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m. will be followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m. Entertainment, including community singing of Christmas songs, will be presented by Lyle Richardson, baritone and pianist, and guest artist Steve Vario, tenor, both from the First Presbyterian Church of San Mateo.

Members are asked to take a gift wrapped for the Christmas stocking to be presented to the patients at the Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center, San Mateo, instead of the exchange of gifts among members of the Rose Society.

Dr. James White, of San Francisco, president of the San Francisco Rose Society, will perform the installation ceremonies, for these officers: Max Burnett, San Mateo, president; Walter Jack, San Mateo, vice president; Mrs. Norman Potter, San Francisco, treasurer; Mrs. Emil Rehm, Belmont, recording secretary; and Mrs. W. R. Anderson, San Mateo, corresponding secretary.

Heart Association Suggests New Book

In these days of inflation it's not always easy to shop economically while selecting healthful foods.

Dr. Harry Verby, chairman of the Nutrition Committee, American Heart Association, San Mateo County Chapter, announced the publication of a new booklet "Save Food $ and Help Your Heart."

The booklet is divided into various food categories — meat, poultry and fish, fruits and vegetables, bread, etc. This publication also contains hints on storing and preparing food, plus information on food labeling and eating away from home. This booklet should provide valuable assistance not only to the average shopper but also to those who have made significant changes in eating habits for medical reasons.

Other free booklets on diet from the Heart Association are: "The Way To A Man's Heart"; "Recipes for Fat-Controlled, Low Cholesterol Meals"; "Eat Well But Eat Wisely"; and "Eat To Your Heart's Content."

Highway Jobs

The California Department of Transportation (CALTRANS) has announced two projects will begin in San Mateo County in the near future. They are: A $175,000 plan to widen Willow Road in Menlo Park and a $25,000 plan to groove pavement on Highway 92 just west of First Creek near Half Moon Bay.

Mrs. Peggy O'Neill, a co-owner and co-director of Multicultural Resources, teaches Indian sign language to the two 10-year-old pupils. The two boys, "V. J." Lopez and "Snoopy" Thornton, both of Daly City, found the Native American section of the collection fascinating. The library, on display in San Francisco this year, operates under a grant from Bank of America Foundation.

Multicultural Resources Struggling for Its Life

It's mindboggling.

Hidden away in a dilapidating barracks at Fort Mason in San Francisco is a library so unique, so unusual, children delight in it, students scour over it, teachers marvel at it, and members of virtually every minority culture applaud it.

Yet the collection — called Multicultural Resources — is struggling for its life.

More than just 5,000 books, colorful posters and graphics, stark photographs, and unfamiliar games and artifacts from many heritages, Multicultural Resources is the passion and vocation of its co-owners and co-directors, Margaret Nichols and her daughter, Peggy O'Neill.

"Wouldn't it be wonderful," Mrs. Nichols says almost wistfully, "if one of those doomed buildings could be set aside as a home for the library?" She gestures toward the old structures destined for dust on the inactive military base.

It sounds like a desperate last hope.

Actually, the future of the library is tenuous, although not yet desperate.

This year Multicultural Resources is funded by a grant from Bank of America Foundation. The School of Education at San Francisco State University provides administrative support. And the San Francisco Unified School District provides display and working space.

Yet, the co-owners worry about the library's future.

A part of the foundation's $30,000 grant is earmarked toward quashing those worries. It is hoped the library can become a self-sustaining, non-profit entity eligible for funding from government agencies and grants from private foundations.

This would be a big step from its beginnings in 1968.

Mrs. Nichols, then a librarian in Menlo Park, and a former teacher, was struck by a jolting question. "Why do minority children never see themselves in their schoolbooks, or for that matter, in any of their reading materials?" Just as jolting, she thought, was that children in all-white schools were seldom conscious of the richness and diversity of other cultures.

Worse yet, she thought, there did not seem to be many materials available to change these situations.

She started collecting existing materials. The first book was educator and author Helaine Dawson's "On the Outskirts of Hope." The stacks of books grew. Mrs. Nichols stored them in the basement of the Menlo Park library and in the garage of her home.

In 1969, she and her daughter put together from these books a display for a conference at San Jose State University.

The teachers and librarians at the conference were impressed. They had never seen such materials.

So, the co-owners made the collection available to schools, libraries, conferences and workshops. That started a full-time, although almost non-paying, vocation for them that hasn't yet stopped.

The collection has continued to grow and has been organizee into four cultural sections: Black, Spanish-speaking, Asian and native American.

When Mrs. Dawson, whose book had been the first of the collection, saw the display of materials, she said, "It is so informative, broad in its perspective and essential for cultural understanding it must be seen by everyone in the country."

Louanne Heath

Christmas is approaching fast! Already a number of groups have had Christmas parties and now comes word of the first New Year's Party!

Mrs. Lyn Dougherty, publicity chairwoman of the Westlake Catholic Women, reports that Mrs. John Sullivan is now accepting reservations for the New Year's Eve Party sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Men and Women.

"The Gatsby Goodtimes" is being chaired by Mrs. Richard Galliani and Charles Boerio with co-chairman Albert Modena. Mrs. Robert Rickert is the decorations chairwoman.

The planning committee has arranged for a sit down New York steak dinner with salad, vegetable, French bread and dessert. For dancing, live music will be provided by the Keynotes. Total cost will be only $25 per couple.

Mrs. Sullivan, 765-4071, will accept calls for reservations, but Mrs. Dougherty stressed that all tickets must be picked up and paid for by Dec. 29. No tickets will be held at the door unless previously paid for by the guest.

MEMBERS OF THE FIFTY Plus Club of Pacifica will hold their own Christmas party tomorrow at the Muffin Mine in Pacifica's Eureka Square.

The dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. and guests are asked to bring inexpensive gifts for the gift exchange. This is the first time the club has had its own party; in the past they shared in the fun of the Veterans Park at the Menlo Park Veterans hospital. The event tomorrow will not replace the annual hospital party but will be held to give the members a more relaxed and private party. Make reservations by calling Mrs. Helen Sprowl, 355-2600.

The date for the veteran's party will be Dec. 21 and the club bus will carry all the makings for a festive party to the men who fought in World War I.

Oranges, apple cider, ice cream, red candles, paper tableclothes, holiday napkins, candy canes and gifts will accompany the seniors hosting the party. Mrs. Amelia Thompson and 10 members of her "music for fun" group will go along to provide entertainment for the party.

ADULT GIRL SCOUT leaders will meet tomorrow morning at 9:30 a.m. in the Hope Lutheran Church to elect council delegates, be trained for badge standards for junior leaders and to hear the details of a new Brownie program which is an enlargement of the Brownie Bee's, complete with patches!

During December many local troops are busily working on doll clothing which will be used to dress dolls collected by the Salvation Army for distribution during the holidays. In addition to their sewing chores the girls are collecting toys for Operation Santa Claus, and many of the troops are preparing to sing in the Westlake Mall as a part of the Christmas program at that shopping center.

Mrs. Donna Lee Henderson, promotions director at Serramonte Shopping Center, has invited any troop interested in caroling in that shopping complex to call her, 992-8686, to make the proper arrangements.

MEMBERS OF THE DALY CITY Committee for Children's Services have started canvasing the neighborhood to determine the extent of the need for a day care center for the children of working mothers.

Members of the committee hope to collect enough signatures to convince the Daly City Council that a real need for a day care center exists in this area.

Mrs. Nemer Gonzalez reports that volunteers will be ringing doorbells, talking with women in laundromats and approaching churchgoers on Sunday in an effort to obtain a good sampling of community opinion.

Women interested in day care are invited to call Mrs. Gonzalez, 992-3591, Mrs. Clara Haynes, 992-2773 or the Service and Referral Center 992-2567 and learn how they can make their opinions known to the proper people.

The committee will present the findings of the volunteer questioners to the City Council during the meeting Dec. 16. Mrs. Gonzalez asked that mothers with children attend that evening session as a visible testimony of their desire for day care. Transportation to the council meeting will be arranged for persons calling Mrs. Gonzalez prior to Dec. 15.

MRS. DENISE SCHWARZBACH is a book collector with a special need. Mrs. Schwarzbach, who chairs the Friends of the Library Book Fair, is asking for more books on "how-to", art and cooking. Check your shelves and if you have some books there that you aren't using drop them off at your nearest branch of the Daly City Library.

STILL COLLECTING for their fourth annual Christmas Party for the Children of Daly City are the members of the Holy Angels Latin Club.

Donations to the party attended by hundreds of local children are off by more than 60 per cent according to Mrs. Nemer Gonzalez.

Contributions from Ronald Chiappari, Granat Bros., Lucky Stores, See's Candy and Sister Mariana of Mary's Help Hospital have been received by the club, but the need for more food, toys, decorations, entertainment and help is desperate and the time is growing short. Anyone interested in donating to this event is asked to call Mrs. Gonzalez, 992-3591.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

What with all the money and time we are spending on Christmas shopping, it behooves us to look around for something to fix for dinner that is inexpensive and quick to make. Eggplant fits the first requirement, as the local markets have a generous supply of big purple eggplant at a bargain price. This recipe for a casserole is certainly quick and easy to make; it uses canned sauce and goes together in a jiffy.

EASY EGGPLANT CASSEROLE

- 1 large eggplant
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 cup dried bread crumbs
- 1 8-oz. can Marinara sauce
- 1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
- 1 8-oz. package Mozzarella cheese
- Parmesan cheese, grated
- Oil for frying

Peel and slice eggplant crosswise into half-inch slices. Beat the two eggs, dip the eggplant into eggs and then coat with bread crumbs. Saute in hot oil until golden brown on both sides. Combine the can of tomato sauce and can of Marinara sauce. Arrange a layer of eggplant in a two-quart casserole, top with sliced Mozzarella cheese, spoon sauce over top and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese; repeat ending with cheese.

Cover and bake in 350-degree oven 30 minutes, remove cover and bake 10 minutes longer. Serves 6.

While conducting a weekly class in baking at St. Andrew's Community Center, I found what most teachers know to be true, I learned as much as I taught. The gals who attended the classes were most generous in sharing their ideas and recipes. One request I had on the last day was for an easy fruitcake recipe, so for Linda and any other good cooks who want to make a quick cake for Christmas, here it is.

GOLDRUSH FRUITCAKE

- 1 egg
- 1 cup water
- 1 package (16½-oz.) Cranberry Bread Mix or Date Bread Mix
- 1 cup whole candied cherries (red or green)
- 1 cup golden raisins
- 1 cup slivered almonds
- ½ cup candied pineapple, cut in wedges

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour an 8x4 or 9x5 inch loaf pan.

In large bowl, combine the egg with cup water. Add the package bread mix, one cup each candied cherries, golden raisins and almonds, and the half cup pineapple wedges. Stir 50 to 75 strokes until thoroughly combined. Turn into prepared pan. Bake at 350 degrees 70 to 85 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; loosen edges with spatula, remove from pan. When completely cool, saturate a piece of cheesecloth in brandy and wrap around fruitcake before wrapping it in plastic wrap and storing in refrigerator.

SANTA'S CORNER

Back by popular demand, Garden Village School PTA in Colma will provide Santa's Corner at its annual Christmas program tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. The program will feature the pupils at the school in a Glee Club performance and in stage plays. Busy making last minute items for Santa's Corner are Mrs. Albert Ramos and Mrs. Ed Inaba.

UBAC Success Stories

The United Bay Area Crusade — which projected a final total of $18,050,171 for its 1974 campaign — reports a number of success stories in San Mateo County this year.

Among them, Philco-Ford's Sierra Electronic Operation, improved its campaign by a healthy 343 per cent, tripling 1973 results and increasing employee participation from 23 to 64 per cent.

The secret to success? "We did it by the book (UBAC's campaign manual)," says Clayton Griffith, a Personnel Manager and Crusade Chairman. "It's amazing. We did it just like the book said . . . and it worked."

Raychem Corporation turned in an outstanding 850 per cent increase, bringing its employe's total donation up from $3,600 to $33,000 — a spectacular increase which Campaign Chairman Robert Saldich attributed to a good, low-key campaign developed by a team which represented every department in the firm.

It's person to person contact that really made the difference, according to campaign leaders at Allstate Insurance Company which reported a 264 per cent increase. With full management support, the campaign team concentrated on well-informed, peer solicitation.

These three companies are part of the Major Employers Division led by Charles A. Anderson, president and chief executive officer at Stanford Research Institute.

UBAC's projected final report for San Mateo County is $1,007,589 — a figure which includes a conservative estimate on results from some campaigns which are not yet completed.

Jefferson High Grads Sought

The 1949-1950-1951 classes from Jefferson High School, Daly City, are planning a 25-year reunion in the spring. Chairmen for the event, Wally Sharp and Jess Martinez, are looking for classmates who have moved and women who have married and whose married names are unknown.

Any information about these persons should be relayed to Wally Sharp at Dolphin Real Estate, 359-6111 or Jess Martinez at El Adobe Barber Shop, 359-0190.

Wenner, Dippel To Wed

The engagement of Deborah D. Wenner and Keith R. Dippel was announced recently by the future bride's mother, Mrs. Gloria Wenner of South San Francisco.

The couple plans to be married on Jan. 18 at St. Catherine of Siena Church. The ceremony will be followed by reception at the Burlingame Recreation Center.

Deborah is a graduate of El Camino High School and the College of San Mateo and is now doing secretarial work in Foster City. She has one sister, Mrs. Stan Hartwig (Lynda Wenner) of San Lorenzo, who will be the honor attendant.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Dippel of Santa Rosa, who are former longtime South San Francisco residents. Also a graduate of El Camino High School and CSM, he earned his bachelor of science degree this year from California State University at Hayward. He is now working for a local hospital.

Keith is the brother of Mrs. Richard Bahr (Shari Dippel) of Daly City, who will be a bridesmaid at the wedding, and Scott and Bruce Dippel, who will perform best man duties.

Other attendants will include Mrs. David Lawrence (Margaret Souza) of San Mateo, Kathleen Bomben of South San Francisco, Mrs. Ralph Wilson (Diane Nominni) of Belmont and Mrs. Robert Trevizo (Nanette Kast) of South San Francisco, who will all share bridesmaid duties.

Stacy Hartwig and Steven Hartwig of San Lorenzo will be the flower girl and ring bearer for their aunt's wedding.

Keith has asked Gene Amato of South San Francisco, Mack Beller of Daly City, Tom Pivk of Sacramento, Richard Bahr of Daly City, his brother-in-law, and Scott Johnson of Millbrae, his cousin, to be the ushers.

The bride-to-be is the granddaughter of Mrs. Vera F. Butcher of Millbrae, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wenner of St. Paul, Minn., who will attend the wedding.

Suzanne Hadland To Wed

The champagne party Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Hadland hosted recently at their Burlingame home was the occasion for them to announce the engagement of their daughter, Suzanne Colleen, to Raymond Leo Abold. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Abold of South San Francisco.

Guests at the party included the future bridegroom's parents and grandmother, Mrs. Audrey Gardzelewski of South San Francisco. Also present were Diane Habit and Elliott Rosenstine of South San Francisco, the Michael Dolders of Belmont, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Geesey of Woodside.

Still other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Clark Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Earle Murphy, the Charles Elkins, and the Edward Schultheises, all of Millbrae; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leary, Cmdr. and Mrs. John Matthews, Mrs. Virginia Colton and Mrs. Marge Wilson, all of Burlingame; the Fred Goodyears of Hillsborough and the Rev. Amos Carey and his family, all of Foster City.

The couple plans to be married in August, 1975.

Murtagh, Lang Are Married

A honeymoon in Tahiti followed the recent marriage of Marianne Murtagh and Dwight Lang.

The bride's second cousin, Robert F. Houlihan, S.J. came from St. Louis, Missouri to officiate at the ceremony and nuptial mass at Holy Angeles Church in Colma. Father Donald Royer from Nevada City, Calif., assisted in the ceremony. A reception dinner followed at the California Golf Club in South San Francisco.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Murtagh of Daly City. Her husband is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Dwight Lang of Grass Valley.

For her wedding Marianne wore a victorian gown of tucked cotton voille, trimmed with Valencia lace and lavender ribbon. A fresh flower headpiece topped her finger tip veil. Vicky Noyes, her maid of honor, wore a print dress of various fall hues.

Dwight asked Gary Brooks of Denver to serve as his best man.

Guests were seated by Doug Kong and Terry Nolan.

Honored guests were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Houlihan of Laguna Hills.

The bride is a graduate of Mercy High School, San Francisco. The groom is a graduate of Nevada Union, Grass Valley, and both are alumni of U.C. Davis.

sterling silver jewelry
handcrafted by American Indians.

Fine silversmithing is an art. And that's the way the tribes of the American Southwest have always approached it. Which is why the jewelry the Navajo, Hopi, Zuni and Santo Domingo Indians make is unique. Necklaces, rings, earrings, bracelets—all beautifully hand fashioned of sterling silver. All set with turquoise, mother-of-pearl or jet. Come see what we mean. Each piece reflects a long tradition of craftsmanship and design, yet no two are alike. Pick out a favorite. And treasure it. The collection, $6 to $1000.

Colgate-Palmolive Co. is sponsoring the Help Young America contest.

The campaign will distribute a total of $365,000 among the local and national organizations of the six foremost youth groups, including the Girl Scouts.

Funds will be distributed according to the share of votes each organization receives in the national balloting.

The American public may vote to Dec. 31. Association Chairwoman Millie Bessire has information and ballots to be filled out on behalf of the South San Francisco Girl Scouts and national headquarters. The local unit could win up to $1,100 and the national organization up to $140,000.

A special attraction for voters is the 25 "Young American" Gremlin automobiles and 2,000 Help Young America tote bags to be awarded to voters by drawings from all Help Young America ballots.

The current Help Young America Campaign, for which Willie Mays is the National Goodwill Ambassador, is the third such annual program.

The inaugural Help Young American Campaign, in 1972, was honored with a Freedoms Foundation Award and the project has been saluted by youth-interested leaders from coast to coast — mayors, governors, Congressmen and the White House.

Youth Groups to Help In Sabbath Services

The pre-Kadima and the Kadima Youth Groups of Congregation B'nai Israel will participate in a Shabbaton during Sabbath Services on Friday, and Saturday.

The children will assist Rabbi Ira Book and Cantor Jacob Graudenz in the conducting of the services by participating in Hebrew and English readings, chanting prayers and responsive readings. In addition, the group will present a program in honor of Shabbat Chanukah.

Chanukah celebrates the victory of Judas Maccabee over the Syrian Greeks in 165 B.C.E. Chanukah, called the Feast of Dedication or the Holiday of Lights, observes the triumph of the few against the many; the few who refused to accept religious beliefs contrary to their convictions and the teachings of the forefathers.

With the determination and steadfastness of the teachings of the Torah, they subdued the alien forces and rededicated the Temple which has been defiled. The cruse of oil which they found sealed by the high priest was sufficient only for a day; however, it lasted for eight days. Therefore the custom of lighting candles for eight days to celebrate the miracle. In general, the holiday brings forth joy and gifts and yet conveys one of the cardinal principles of the Jewish religion and of this country — freedom of worship.

The services on Friday evening begins at 8:30 p.m. and on Saturday morning at 10 a.m.

Refreshments will follow each service.

The Sunday School of Congregation B'nai Israel will hold a Chanukah Carnival on Sunday from 10 to noon in the Synagogue. Each class will provide Chanukah exhibits dealing with decorations and games of the holiday and booths devoted to Soviet Jewry, Israel, Jewish History and the Maccabees.

In addition, the newly formed P.T.O. (Parents-Teachers-Organization) will provide the tranditional food of the season, potato pancakes, to the children and will make available a brunch of bagels, lox and other delicacies for the adults.

The event is open to the public, and there will be no solicitation of funds; however, as a part of the Chanukah games, donations to the Israel Emergency Fund will be accepted. Chanukah cards also will be available free. For details, call the Synagogue office, 756-5430.

CAKE SALE PLANNING

Westmoor High PTA members (from left) Mrs. Robert Hansen, Mrs. David Parker and Mrs. Charles Coppock, are making plans for the cake sale at Back to School Night set for Dec. 12 at 7:30 p.m. Following a PTA meeting, cakes will be sold, and refreshments will be served.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Nina and Vince's Baby Has a Baby

Plenty of excitement at Vince Licata's Italian and Seafood restaurant the other evening — and good reason, too. Robert Allen Coibion, Jr. was making his restaurant debut at the tender ago of three weeks, and Grandpappy Vince was holding him in his arms to show the wee one off to his best advantage. Robert Allen Jr. is the son of Nina and Vince's baby daughter, Rosalind, and her hubby Robert Coibion. Having grandchildren is no new experience to the Licatas — Robert Allen Jr. is their tenth. "Keep 'em coming," says Vince. "One of these days I'll retire." . . . Reservations are already limited for the New Year's Eve package offered at the Holiday Inn, Belmont. Finocchio's Reopens Thursday, Dec. 26

It's vacation time for Joe and Eve Finocchio and the cast of performers at their world famed Finocchio's on Broadway in San Francisco. This bustling nitery, which is a must for tourists, will be closed from December 8 through Christmas Day. The club will reopen on Thursday, Dec. 26 . . . The room temperature in the Golden Rooster Lounge at the Rodeway Inn, South San Francisco, reaches record highs on Mondays and Fridays when lingerie fashion shows are featured. Becky and a bevy of curvey cuties model the latest in lingerie to the delight of fashion-conscious dining crowds . . . Nick Gust, one of Pacifica's leading citizens, invites one and all to enjoy Sunday morning breakfast at his Nick's restaurant and lounge, located on the edge of the Pacific Ocean in Rockaway Beach. What better way on the day of rest to reward yourself for a week of hard work. Nick also owns the splendid Moonraker restaurant, just next door, and Captain Charles, a seafood specialty house, which gives visitors to this scenic spot a choice of menu, plus a vista view. You'll agree that these high acclaimed restaurants are well deserving.

Scotty Campbell's Open Christmas Day

A telephone conversation with Mary Lou Fox informed this Scribe that she has made a slight change in the restaurant hours at her far-famed Scotty Campbell's restaurant in Redwood City. Service on Friday and Saturday is now from 4:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. Hours the rest of the week remain the same (Monday through Thursday, 4:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.; Sunday from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m.). Yes, Scotty Campbell's will be serving Christmas Day. In fact, even Santa Claus might stop in for a hot meal — it seems all the other celebrities do . . . Eddie Mesa, who has been called "The Elvis Presley of the Philippines," has been signed to open in the Mabuhay Gardens Supper Club tonight. Another example of the high quality entertainment being offered by owner Ness Aquino. Appearing with Mesa will be vivacious Norma Balagtas, the "Filipino Queen of Country and Western" . . . As a reminder: Christopher's, a bustling hof brau in downtown San Mateo, also prepares sandwiches to go. The selection of authentic Italian submarine sandwiches, to travel or otherwise, seems endless.

Shirt Tail Ideal for Christmas Parties

Christmas cocktail parties, with a wide assortment of hors d'oeuvres, are on the Holiday agenda at the Shirt Tail restaurant in Palo Alto. Although most of the parties planned are buffet-style, the Shirt Tail's management can arrange almost any type of gathering up to 60 guests . . . Enrico Romano, owner of Romano's Italian restaurant in Pacifica's scenic Rockaway Beach, takes great pride in serving his patrons so well that they return time and again for his superb pizzas and Italian dinners. Did you know that this popular restaurant operator was a hunting enthusiast and racing car aficiando in his spare time? . . . Phil Lehr concocted a peach of a dessert at the Steakery in San Francisco which he calls, not surprisingly, Peach Pernod. It's a toothsome treat prepared at the table by your waiter and served flambe' in a beautiful silver stirrup cup . . . The smooth sounds of vocalist-guitarist Tony Soraci are brightening up the Mark Twain Casino Lounge in the Ormsby House Hotel and Casino, in Carson City, now through New Year's Eve. A relative newcomer to show business, this will be Tony's fourth return engagement to this Northern Nevada showplace.

This is a positive "don't miss" . . . Lehr's Greenhouse is a great spot for light, pre-holiday dining. The luncheon menu features an enticing selection of salads, and at dinner you can order gourmet seafood specialties that are as kind to your palate as they are to your waistline.

Sugar n' Spice entertain with light, contemporary music, with some vigorous rock sounds, in the Topaz Room at Nevada Lodge, North Lake Tahoe, through Dec. 22. Twins Jackie and Marcie Williams are the sugar, with Dick Padgett and Jim Prince the spice, in this young quartet of singer-musicians. The group features numbers by the Fifth Dimension, Roberta Flack, Carol King, Neil Diamond and the Carpenters. Performances are several times nightly, including a dinner buffet show on Saturdays and Sundays . . . Nightly dinner dancing and buffet takes over the South Shore Room at Harrah's Tahoe, while Cabaret entertainment holds the spotlight. In the Stateline Cabaret: Paul Revere and the Raiders with Mark Lindsay and Tommy Cash. The Amazing Kreskin and the Jack D'Johns Trio open Thursday night. Next headline attractions in the South Shore Room are the Smothers Brothers and Florence Henderson. They open Dec. 20

Council Rejects SSF Sign Appeal

The South San Francisco City Council Wednesday night, reaffirming its desire to keep Westborough Boulevard a scenic road, rejected an appeal from Home Savings and Loan Co., for an off site sign at Westborough and Gellert Boulevards.

"Unless we can turn buyers toward our subdivision (Westborough Villas), we are lost," declared Herbert Goodwyn, speaking for Home Savings' sign company. "We are willing to post $1,000 surety bond for removal."

Planner David Hale reported that the Planning Commission had approved two other signs directing home buyers to the subdivision. The Westborough Boulevard location he declared, was inappropriate "because of its scenic qualities."

Approval of the sign would promote similar requests for signs in the area and would result in roadway clutter, he said.

Councilman Leo Padreddii suggested Goodwyn see the Planning Commission about a "temporary thing."

In other business, the council:

• Authorized an agreement with Marshall Stevens, Inc., to appraise all city-owned property, buildings and equipment at a first-year cost of $8,150, then $1,050 annually to update it. This agreement grew out of a previous proposal to swap some city owned land for the old Martin House.

• Authorized staff to advertise for bids for a four-wheel street sweeper, estimated at $25,000.

• Awarded contract for fire hose to L. N. Curtis and sons, the low bidder, at $4,998.96.

• Heard J. V. Christiansen of the Oroweat Co. agree to conditions imposed by the city, settling objections voiced by residents of Francisco Terrace. The firm has cut back on railroad loading noise, will place a screen in front of the upper part of its silos, and will plant pines to screen the lower part.

• Received a low bid of $18,725 from Lowrie Paving Co. to resurface Oyster Point Marina parking lots — but was informed by Parks and Recreation Director Dick Milkovich that the Harbor Commission wants more study before agreeing to accept the bid. The Harbor District would be paying for the project. The engineer's estimate is $20,000.

Scout Executive Quits

Neil Farmer, chief executive of the San Mateo County Boy Scout Council only 11 months, has resigned and is being replaced by a temporary official.

Farmer will return to duties with the National Boy Scout Council, said Michael Bredenbeck, president of the local council.

Bredenbeck said Farmer had previously worked with the National Council on fund-raising and promotions, and was happier with that work than he had been as San Mateo County's chief scouting administrator.

Farmer was appointed by the local council last October, and took office Jan. 1, 1974.

Friendly Giants

Brett Lowart is a three sport athlete at Terra Nova High in Pacifica, a reporter on the school's prize-winning news-magazine, Tiger Tales, and this past season served as Giants' batboy. The talented junior combined all above talents in the most recent issue of Tiger Tales when he wrote an article about what it is like to be a batboy for a major league baseball team, and offered his personal observations of many of the Giant personalities.

The piece offered a unique opportunity to see the Giants through the eyes of a young athlete who is just past the stage of hero worship, but not yet jaded enough to be unimpressed — positively or negatively — about what goes on around the locker room of a professional sports team.

Following are excerpted comments from Brett's story about individual Giants. We believe you will enjoy the candid insights:

JOEY AMALFITANO — Amalfitano lives up to his nickname. "Pro, as he is called, is just what he is. The Giants' first base coach should have been made manager when the Giants dumped Charley Fox. Joey is capable and the players all get along with him. . .

DON McMAHON — Is an avid sports fan. Anyone can ask him what was on (TV) last night and he'll tell you. He has his hands full trying to control his young pitching staff, so next year he might be concentrating more on game films that TV.

ANDY GILBERT — Gilbert is . . . Wes Westrum's right hand man. Andy always plays pepper with me and hits me fly balls.

OSSIE VIRGIL — Knows what he's doing and does it in a quiet way, but whenever he talks, players listen.

CHRIS ARNOLD — Usually, the first player I talk to when I arrive at the park. Chris is unquestionably the most liked player on the team, and even though he doesn't play much he is a man that is important. He usually has a crowd around him and is telling a joke. It is a rare sight when there is a sad face near Arlo's (Arnold's nickname) row of lockers.

TITO FUENTES — He could drive librarians crazy. There is not a known way of stopping Tito from talking.

CHRIS SPEIER — Short-tempered. I learned early to stand back and duck after Chris strikes out. Off the field Chris is one of the nicest players you would want to know.

DAVE KINGMAN — Alias "Moony" because of his 6-5 stature. A gentle giant.

BRUCE MILLER — Quiet, but will always talk to me about plays during the game.

MIKE PHILLIPS — With his obvious Texas accent, he is always interested in how I do in sports and wants to know everything to the last detail.

DAVE RADAR — Like all the catchers on the Giants, he's quiet, but he's the most quiet of them all. But everyone likes 'the Rooster."

KEN RUDOLPH (since traded) — Always plays pepper with me and hits it harder and harder every time. He tries to hit the seam of the Astroturf so the ball will pop up and hit me in the face. I always bump into him purposely when I get the chance.

JOHN BOCCABELLA (since retired) — Has a fantastic attitude. He (rarely plays), but smiles every time you see him. He is truly one of the nicest men in baseball.

GARY MATTHEWS — Is the kind of guy you would want to play for you. He always hustles, is enthusiastic and is rooting for everybody on the team.

GARRY MADDOX — Easy going . . . will lead the league in hitting if he ever puts it all together.

GARY THOMASSON — If he wants something, he'll tell you. He's always telling reporters to come to him after the game for interviews, just so he can read his name in the newspaper the next day.

BOBBY BONDS (since traded) — S(Supposedly) the Giant superstar, (but) in my opinion far from it. But he has more potential than anyone in the league. I remember when Bobby stole second and came out with a sore leg. Arlo said that he wished he had a pair of sore legs that could get him to second so fast. Bobby had one superstar year . . but will have to learn that he must work harder each year if he wants fan mail to keep pouring in. Bobby only once has taken extra batting practice. Willie Stargell . . was doing so bad he asked me to shag for him after the game. When you go that far you must really want to be a superstar.

JIM BARR — Is the ace starter, but is much more than that. J. B., as he is called . . . is intelligent and is the man players most respect. He is always hustling and will go out of his way to do something for you. He's the only player that could have a bad day and still talk to me about how I'm doing in school . . . There are some players I get along with best simply because these guys aren't ashamed to talk with the batboys. Barr could be talking with the president or some drunk laying in the gutter and listen with the same intent.

TOM BRADLEY — Had shoulder problems all year, but he has to overcome a losing attitude if he ever wants to win again. Tom is the heart of a lot of pranks. Tom, not known for his good looks, often walks to his locker . . . (to) find horror movie stars taped above his locker.

RON BRYANT — This year it saddened me to see (him) over at his locker. After having a horrendous year, Bear has nothing to say. He may be speechless now, but it wouldn't surprise me to see him win again next year.

MIKE CALDWELL — Has some of the best one-liners in baseball. He knows exactly what to say when the umpire misses a call . . . (and) the umpire knows exactly who to look at.

RANDY MOFFITT — Coolest character on the Giants. Randy is more famous for his sister, Billie Jean King. When asked if he is Billie Jean's brother, he says, "No, she's my sister." Randy has made a name for himself. He is so cool that when I go out to get his jacket when he goes in to pitch he asks me what's happening.

ELIAS SOSA (since traded) — Speaks little English, so he does not talk much, but the players like him for what he is.

JOHN MORRIS — Is known for his good build. Bradley often tells him to let the air out of his muscles.

ED GOODSON — Always jokes around with the batboys. I don't like to think about it, but Ed is on the trading block and I will hate to see him go.

JOHN D'ACQUISTO — He's one of the guys I want to be the best. Aside from being a card shark, he is one of the most promsiing rookie pitchers the Giants have ever had. He is calm, poised and has abundant talent. He's the only hurler who causes the catchers to use sponges in their mitts. He never says a bad word about anyone. Whenever he wants me to do something, he asks if I can do it, not just telling me to do it, like most players. He asks me when my games are and how I do in them and he asks me a lot about my team because he knows I take pride in it.

STEVE ONTIVEROS — Another I want to be the best. On the bench, when he doesn't play, we always do the (scoreboard) quiz together. One quiz was about who was the last player to get 150 RBI. My guess was Harmon Killebrew, his Tommy Davis. He was right and I said, "Well, Killebrew got 147 RBI," and Steve said, "Hell, 147 was easy," then he turned the other way to laugh.

JOHN MONTEFUSCO — The first guy people talk to me about. The funniest thing about him is the way he gets along with the fans. He'll tip his hat or wave whenever he is applauded. Arlo told me that, "one of these days he's going to do handstands into the dugout." He is nicknamed "The Count," but "showboat" would be more appropriate.

EDDIE LOGAN (clubhouse man) — When the players want something, they go to him. The players play a lot of jokes on him, but when he tells them they can't have something or put something back, they don't talk back.

GREAT ESCAPE

Former El Camino High School, College of San Mateo and University of Pacific grid standout Bob Adams escapes from the grasp of Raider Defender George Atkinson at the Coliseum Dec. 1. Adams now toils for the New England Patriots as a tight end.

SSF's Bob Adams

Life in the NFL

By GARRY NIVER
Post Sports Writer

It was late in the third quarter at the Coliseum Dec. 1 and the eastern shadows were starting to mount a drive which would soon consume the entire stadium.

New England Patriot tight end Bob Adams came off the line in a pass pattern and the omnipresent hammer arm of Phil Villapiano thudded against his nose guard and flesh. It had been like that all afternoon for the former El Camino High, CSM and Pacific University grid star.

Adams came home Dec. 1, but it wasn't a very happy occasion for the Pats, in the running for the AFC Eastern title for most of the season. Now, with the loss to the Raiders, the Pats' chances of making it to the playoffs are about as great as Half Moon Bay landing the Super Bowl for '76.

"We started out good, winning our first five games," recalled Adams. "I guess the high point of our season was when we beat Minnesota."

"The emergence of the Patriots as a contending team came about through a combination of factors; the main ones being talent, coaching and enthusiasm," said Adams, who came to the Pats last year from the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Adams, a recent convert of Scientology, is a great believer in the latter intangible.

"All teams which are winners have to have it," stated Adams. "And as the team matures, the enthusiasm grows with it. If you don't have an emotional edge, you won't make it in the long run.

The mustachioed Peninsulan was abruptly shoved into the breech in mid-season when regular tight end Bob Windsor injured a shoulder and was declared out for the season.

"You're always ready, but you hate to get a starting role because someone was injured." Adams, who at 6-4 and 225 is one of the smaller tight ends in the NFL, feels that his size is actually an advantage.

"I'm big enough to block and yet quick enough to run pass patterns. Size is definitely not a handicap with me."

Adams also credits Scientology with aiding his career.

"It's a fascinating subject," he noted. "Basically, it gives an individual greater concentration and a greater awareness of right now.

"It doesn't dwell on what you have done or where you have been, but what you can do right now. It's a powerful tool."

In conjunction with Scientology, Adams has become involved in the Narconon Program and in the Applied Scholastics Program in Boston.

First Win for Skyline

Skyline College's basketball picked up its first win of the season Friday night, fast-breaking to a 94-74 non-conference win over the visiting Hayward State junior varsity.

The teams were tied 42-42 at the half, but Skyline ran its fast break well and improved defensively in the second half.

The Trojans (1-2) had four players score 20 points or more — Mason Larkin had 24, Marty Gale 22, Wyatt Sweeney 20 and Nick Papageorge 20. Gale kept the Trojans even in the first half with 16 points; Papageorge had 16 in the second, and 11 assists for the game.

Skyline shot 60 per cent from the floor, 45-74, and went 4-4 from the line.

Bulldogs Third In State Event

CYPRESS — Jim Purcell nabbed an all-tournament berth after leading College of San Mateo's water polo team to a third-place finish in the State Junior College championships at Cypress JC over the weekend.

The Bulldogs lost to eventual State champion Fullerton in the semi-finals 10-3 Friday night — earlier, burglars stole more than $1,500 worth of valuables from their hotel rooms — then topped San Jose City College 11-10 in two overtimes Saturday for the consolation prize.

Fullerton beat DeAnza College 15-9 in the title match.

CSM Coach Rich Donner said the thievery "had to affect them a little bit" against Fullerton and that 19 turnovers were factors in the loss.

Rick Helvey scored the winning goal against San Jose, while goalie Larry Fabbro contributed 14 saves.

Oceana Survives Rally

Oceana High withstood a third-quarter Aragon rally and pulled away to a 57-43 non-league basketball win Friday night in Pacifica.

The Sharks got inside often in the first half, led by nine most of the time, and took a 34-22 intermission lead. But Aragon, behind the outside shooting of Steve Sellers, pulled to within 40-38 after three quarters.

The game was tied once 40-40 at the outset of the fourth period, but Oceana, sparked by the scoring of Robert Clay and Gordon Speck, pulled away after that. Clay and Speck each scored 17 points; Sellers led Aragon with 15.

CELEBRATING OUR 51st YEAR

FDR Shines in Football Playday

Under the skillful coaching of Gene Behymer and Bob Kossick, the two representative teams from Franklin D. Roosevelt School dominated the Daly City Recreation Flag Football Playday Competition at Daniel Webster School last week.

It was a clear, sunny day at Daniel Webster, as the Roosevelt Bulls entered the field to meet the tenacious players from Gellert Park. The Bulls scored the first and only touchdown in the first quarter, when Andre Williams swept left end for a 36-yard touchdown romp.

During the fourth quarter standout Fred Gurr sacked the Gellert quarterback for a safety which concluded the defense dominated game.

The Bulls' defensive heroes were Roman Romero, Bobby Gay, Mandy Basa, Robert Obregon and Tony Lewis.

The Bulls also trounced the stubborn unit from Vista Mar, 26-6, in a game which featured Anthony Pitcher, who threw like Johnny Unitas, tossing four touchdown bombs (three to Andre Williams) in the rout.

The offensive stars included John Demetrios, Craig Penrose, Chris Cubic and Tony Carrion. While on defense, Arnold Pbansado, the signal caller, was voted the most outstanding player by his fellow teammates.

The young, aggressive Roosevelt Raiders pulled off the biggest upset of the year as they shocked the offensive machine from Westmoor Park, 23-21.

Under constant pressure from the Westmoor line, Raider quarterback Tony Barrazza calmly tossed two touchdown passes to Romeo Yeo and Ronnie Berger. Other offensive standouts were Jerry and Dennis Cris, David Cade, Keith Gilbert, Paul Brisby and David Holeman.

The defensive unit was anchored by Danny Gonzalez, Paul Butterfield, Greg Edmonson and John Talo, all of whom played well in the stunning upset.

SWIM AWARD

Vicky Morino, Dolphin Club Golden Gate swim queen, presents a finishers' trophy to her father, Jim Morino, on the anniversary of his recent 26th crossing of the golden gate. Vicky is a student at Jefferson High School and a member of its girls' swim team.

Nails Edge Warriors

The Rusty Nails remain alone in second place by edging the Warriors 41-36 behind Larry Norton's 16 points in the three-man Hunch League sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Divison. Tom Borg scored 19 points for the Warriors in a valiant losing effort.

Donald Carter's 24-points led the way to a 40-31 Reckers victory over Brand X. The Reckers ended their regular season with an unblemished 8-0 record. Jini Francivich led Brand X with 15 points.

In a battle for a possible playoff spot, The Cavaliers defeated the Gunners 40-29. Greg Hansen and Dave Gonzales led the way with 16 and 12 points respectively. Dave Murphy was high point man for the Gunners with 17 points.

Turf Club I won by forefeit over Turf Club II.

Swim Meet: Brother and Sister Win

Jim and Virginia Gerken won ribbons while representing the South San Francisco Aquatics Club at the Pacifica Sea Lions 'B' swim meet held recently at Terra Nova High School.

Jim, 6, won second place in the boys' 6 and Under age-group 25 yard freestyle event, while his 4 year old sister was fifth in the girls' 25 yard freestyle event.

Thirty-nine resented the Aquatics Club at the meet. The Club is sponsored by the S.S.F. Parks and Recreation Dept., and it is an A.A.U. age-group competitive swim team. Twelve swim teams competed at the meet.

Scott Pechman was first in the 8 and Under age-group 50 yard backstroke event. His time of 45.0 earned Scott his first 'A' medal.

Ribbon winners in the 10 and Under age-group were: John Alvarado, fifth in 50 breast; Tommy Kirk, first in 50 free; and Bernice Nava, eighth in both 50 free and 50 back.

Angie Imura won third 'A' medals in the 11-12 year old group by being first in 50 free, third in 50 back, and fourth in the 100 yard individual medley. Charles Brabec was fifth in 100 breast and eighth in 50 butterfly while Sheri McGee was sixth in the 100 yard individual medley.

Michelle Young won second 'A' medals, with first place finishes in both the 200 I.M. and 100 breast. She also finished third in 100 butterfly and 100 back. Other 13-14 year old winners were: Richard Johnson, eighth in 100 back; Loretta Sylvia, fourth in 200 breast; and Daryk Tenorio, seventh in 100 back.

In the 15-17 age-group, Richard Gill was fifth in 100 breast, and John Michael won third ribbons, sixth in 50 free and seventh in both 100 breast and 200 yard invidivual medley.

'There's a Sucker Born Every Minute'

Police Issue County Con Game Warning

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The late P. T. Barnum is credited with saying "There's a sucker born every minute."

With the increase in personal swindles nowadays, it appears there's actually a sucker born every second.

According to police, dozens of persons are ripe for the plucking.

And this year, swindlers are boasting a record harvest.

Daly City detective Les Bastedo said rings of swindlers — or "con men" — are operating throughout the county. He cautioned people to beware, lest they lose their Christmas money.

One of the more flourishing con games is the "bank swindles."

This is when the con artist calls his victim on the phone and tells him (or her) that he is a bank guard or Treasury Department agent and is trying to apprehend a dishonest teller at the bank.

The bank they discuss just happens to be the victim's bank. The con artist solicits the help of the sucker in nabbing the naughty teller.

You can bet these con men have done their homework and know the amount of their victim's bank account.

Would the nice person cooperate and withdraw money from their savings, say $2,000, from the account?

Afterall, the victim does want to see law and order preserved, right?

In most cases, the answer is "yes."

The "lawmen" assures the victim there is no danger of losing the money because after the money is withdrawn they will come over, fingerprint the bills, and return it to the bank.

And wouldn't it be nice to see the nasty, dishonest teller arrested?

Too late most persons realize they've been had.

It's an old swindle and, unfortunately, very successfull, according to Bastedo.

Police always hear the same description given of the swindlers:.

"They were so nice, so polite."

Bustedo that if they aren't "nice and polite they couldn't pull off the swindle."

How about this one:

A woman (usually) engages a stranger in idle conversation, either on the street or in a shopping center. Suddenly another "nice" person runs up and quietly whispers (loud enough for the intended victim to hear) that she just found a large amount of money outside.

"Let's take it over to an attorney friend of mine nearby and he'll tell us what to do" one of the persons suggests.

Out of sheer "friendship" they include the victim in the scheme.

While the victim stays outside with one of the nice persons, the other goes in, engages someone in conversation and returns excitedly.

"We can keep the money after 30 days Mr. Soandso says. All we have to do to share equally is put up some good faith money."

Here's the rub.

The so-called "good faith money" is an undetermined amount of cash — no checks, money orders or bank books — to be put in an envelope and retained by the victim.

The victim agrees.

Afterall, he'll be holding the envelope with the cash.

Later, when he decides to have a peek at that envelope he'll find he was left holding the bag.

Inside there will be no cash — only cut paper. The swindlers have made a switch.

Then there's another goody.

A would be philanthropist comes to town with a bundle of money.

He likes your honest face and asks you to help decide who should receive some financial help.

Flattery will get this crook everywhere.

You like him (or her) and agree to help.

The amount to be distributed is $7,000, as an example. Just to be certain you are as honest as your face, a set amount in cash must be put up by you.

Out comes the old envelope trick and your money is stuffed inside.

What a wonderful feeling it is to help some charity cases.

What a nice man you met, wanting to spread joy and happiness around to the poor folks.

Later, when he doesn't contact you, a peek in the envelope, where you put your cash, brings to light that old saying: Charity begins at home.

Arnett's School Bill

A Compromise Plan

State Assemblyman Dixon Arnett (R-Redwood City) has proposed a new state public school finance bill which would be a compromise between what exists now and a plan to impose a statewide property tax.

Arnett described the bill Thursday as a politically possible alternative to the potentially destructive statewide tax which has been proposed by the state Board of Education.

According to that plan, affluent areas like San Mateo County, which are losing enrollment and spend a great deal of money per student, would be forced to relinquish much of their tax funds to help support less blessed portions of California.

Nearly all fiscal control of the public schools would then emanate from Sacramento. Local control would become a virtual impossibility when it came to finances.

However, the Arnett bill attempts to strike a balance, even though his bill does resemble the education board's measure.

Under Arnett's plan, the state's school districts would continue to set their own property tax rates, but they would have to share some of the money with other districts.

"In no way is a statewide property tax going to fly politically," said Arnett. "This is better because the tax rate would be set locally, and it's designed to fit within the current surplus."

Districts would keep the money from local property taxes on homes, Arnett explained. But a gradually increasing percentage of a district's" commercial property would be pooled with that of other districts, so that each could raise the same money with the same tax rate.

Arnett said that process would not equalize fully every district's fund-raising power. But he said he is confident that the bill would satisfy recent court decisions which have mandated that the legislature significantly change the way public schools are financed.

The gist of the court's rulings is that children in California who attend public schools must have an equal amount of money spent on them, no matter where they are in the state.

Since each district contains its own unique set of taxable properties, the disparity statewide in money spent per child is staggering. The court — and the legislators — aim to alter that.

San Mateo County would be hit hard by any further tampering with the old system because relatively modest tax rates still bring in a great deal of tax money because of the high value of land and structures here.

Presently, this county's schools are hurting because of earlier changes in finance law. So far, as many as ten of the districts here are planning to seek revenue increases sometime in 1975.

Arnett said his bill would add $311 million in the first year of implementation to bring districts above the current average of spending per child.

The board of education's plan would set a statewide tax of $4 per $100 of assessed valuation. The ultimate price tag on that measure is said to be about $1 billion per year.

Mental Health Plan Shift Described

By BOB HEMINGWAY

It's "scramble, scramble, scramble" as the nucleus of a staff which will direct the new preventive mental health service for children attempts to "put everything together" and get the program fully functional.

Dr. Barbara Long, children's services coordinator for the San Mateo County Department of Health and Welfare and acting director of the new program, said Thursday it is now "operational in the beginning stages."

The County Board of Supervisors approved the revolutionary program, designed to shift preventive mental health service from mental health centers to the schools and communities, last Oct. 15.

Elementary School districts, is costing $340,000 for the first year, with the National Institute of Health paying 80 per cent. Of the balance, the state will pay 90 per cent and the county 10 per cent.

County Director of Health and Welfare Dr. George Pickett told the board at the time that "of all the programs I have presented to you in my years here, this may well be the most important."

The eight-year program, which initially is starting in the Ravenswood, the San Mateo City and the Jefferson

Pickett said in recommending the program that, historically, the mental health service needs of children aged 5 to 14 have been given less attention than the service needs of adults, even though it is estimated that 30 per cent of all children are "at risk" of developing emotional or behavioral problems.

Purpose of the project is to establish a joint school-community mental health program in which mental health professionals, school staff and parents together can improve the possibility of aiding "at risk" youngsters before their problems become severe.

Mrs. Long described the program as providing "indirect services," with no direct treatment of children.

It is possible, however, in rare cases, that there will be on "crisis intervention" involving the child, his parents and a teacher.

The great emphasis, Mrs. Long stated, is not on a specific child with a problem, but in training teachers in skills and understanding of all kinds of youngsters with problems.

A teacher with training in child development principles will be able to create a better climate in the classroom, and the youngsters will learn better, she said.

A teacher with specific skills in resolving conflicts will be able to train children how to deal with conflicts, Mrs. Long asserted.

"If children begin to understand what life is all about, they are going to begin to understand themselves," she stated.

The program, Mrs. Long said, is based on the theory that if you enhance strength in people the (emotional or behavioral) symptoms fade out.

"If you feel better about yourself, then you feel better about other people," she added. "It works."

Mrs. Long admitted that the program is not foolproof, but it is a "positive approach."

In his report to the Board of Supervisors, Pickett cited the long-term goal of the project to develop three regional models of school mental health programs, with emphasis on prevention by means of training, consultation and collaboration.

A team of three mental health professionals, a research assistant and a secretary will staff each of the school districts training teachers and conferring with parents.

As teachers and parents become skilled in dealing with various situations and problem situations involving youngsters in a particular school, the team will move on to other schools and districts to repeat the procedure.

Parents, too, should benefit from the program, Mrs. Long said.

"I'm sure there are parents who would like to learn more about parenting," she stated.

The teachers and the mental health staff are enthusiastic, she added.

"It's quite exciting."

Shuffle Plan Stirs Chiefs

By JACK BIK

A proposal to transfer three fire department battalion chiefs from traditional 24-hour shifts to standard 40-hour work weeks has evoked some controversy in South San Francisco.

City Manager Edward G. Alario two weeks ago had announced the changeover, which was to be effective Jan. 1. But he abruptly withdrew the announcement in the face of apparent opposition.

Fire Chief Lawrence Toellner said he will confer with Alario and the battalion chiefs on the problem.

Toellner said, "I need more management personnel, and the city has no money to spare."

He only has two full-time managerial posts for a department of four firehouses and 81 men — himself and Assistant Fire Chief Berk Zylker.

The city's fire-fighting forces are divided into three platoons of 24 men apiece, each headed by a battalion chief. Each platoon works 24 hours, then has 48 hours off.

Under Toellner's plan:

* The three battalion chiefs would go on day shifts.

* They would be appointed to the posts of Operations Officer, Fire Marshal, and Suppression Officer.

* A fourth third-ranking post would be created by promoting the present training officer, now a captain.

* The four chiefs would share standby duty during nights, weekends and holidays. To compensate them for standby time, they would get a four-day weekend every fourth weekend.

The battalion chiefs would go only to structural fires or major disasters. Out of 2,117 emergency runs last year, only 337 were structural, including 109 homes, 12 stores and nine manufacturing plants.

The reshuffling, Toellner said, would eliminate the job of fire marshal captain, saving at least $19,000 a year, while adding 4,000 hours a year to the time devoted to managerial responsibilities.

Toellner attributed opposition by battalion chiefs to a dislike of losing the 48 hours off between shifts. However, one official of the Firefighters Union cites a loss of firefighting manpower as the union's objection. Although the battalion chief would go to every major fire, there still will be a delay before he gets there.

"The first five minutes at a fire are the most important," he said.

The fire captain would direct the fire-fighting activities, instead of handling the hose or the fire-axe.

Toellner, on the other hand, said he believes there should be little loss in response time.

It would be up to the captain on the scene to decide if he needs the battalion chief.

In some cases, Toellner asserted, the battalion chief would be getting to the fire first.

A long-range aim of the plan, Toellner said, is to provide battalion chiefs with enough different kinds of managerial experience so that future fire chiefs would be selected from the force. Toellner's appointment from the Oakland Fire Department last year caused widespread dissatisfaction at the time.

Toellner said if the proposal, which he said is based upon modern managerial concepts, is not accepted, he must request additional managerial posts for the fire department.

The Firefighters Union and the chiefs, meanwhile, are reported to be studying the 50-page booklet issued by Toellner explaining the plan.

Diverse Views Heard at Coast Meet

By BOB PETERSON

Diverse opinions and words of caution permeated the room, as the California Coastal Alliance (CCA) met in an all-day Saturday conference at the South San Francisco Rodeway Inn.

But the single goal was to evaluate, plan, forecast and outline a course of action in the plot of the story to save the California coast.

CCA, a powerful force contributing to the successful passage of Proposition 20, the coastal zone initiative, is now regrouping to monitor the drafting of a permanent coastal plan.

In approving Proposition 20 two years ago, the voters created a coastal commission charged with the preparation of a state coastal plan to be made up of nine planning elements, containing policies of statewide applicability.

Deadline for the plan is January 1976, when it is to be submitted to the state legislature.

To insure getting a law it feels will provide essential permanent environmental protection of the California coast, the CCA in 1975 will begin another grassroots campaign "to assess the level of interest in a sound coastal plan."

The intent is "to achieve greater participation, in the final planning process, to lobby legislators and to influence decision makers."

Approximately 200 CCA representatives from throughout the state attended the Saturday conference.

Speakers included newly-elected San Bernardino County Assemblyman Terry Groggin, who was seeking support for AB 180, a bill he has introduced with the intent of restricting offshore oil drilling.

According to Groggin, the legislation would give on with the business of changing our life style." permit authority on construction or expansion to the state energy commission. Any decision would have to be based on energy demand.

"This bill would give leverage to negotiate, to stop drilling unless necessary. If granted, the applicant must comply with state, not federal, standards," said Groggin.

The bill also would require "the least visible impact," which means, explained Groggin, that the drilling rigs would be sub-sea.

"This bill needs substantial grassroots support," cautioned Groggin.

One speaker, who referred to himself as "the token bad guy," represented non-environmental interests. He was Peter Feaney, special assistant to the Council for Environmental and Economic Balance in San Francisco.

"Our goal is to see a plan that is passable and implementable and one in which conflicts can be resolved," said Feaney. "We (as with CCA) won't leave to the legislature (alone) to develop a final plan."

Feaney said key issues that need to be defined include the matter of compensation to a land owner who may be refused the use of his land.

Another he listed was a need for a rural versus an urban distinction.

Fearey said he wanted to adopt a plan "and get

Several of the panel of speakers indicated Jerry Brown's election to the governor's chair could prove beneficial to CCA.

"The key is who the new administration will name as Secretary of Resources," said Peter Douglas, a consultant with the Assembly Select Committee on Coastal Resources.

"Also important is who you get to carry the bill," said Douglas. "My first choice would be to have it be an administrative bill, and it's likely it will be."

Douglas said for successful implementation of a strong coastal plan, efforts should be concentrated on as few bills as possibly, preferably one or two.

"You can't try to do too much in the legislation," he warned, adding that existing legislation can be used to carry out some objectives.

Tom Willoughby, a consultant on the Assembly Committee on Local Government, echoed Douglas' views.

"There never will be a final solution to land use along the coast," said Willoughby. "You have to set up a mechanism to keep the coast to where it's of benefit to all of California."

William Press, executive director of the Planning and Conservation League in Sacramento, outlined several pending bills expected to be acted on in the new session.

They include AB 15, legislation that would require counties to identify prime agricultural lands and keep them in production.

There also is a League of California Cities land use proposal that would create a state planning council with direction to identify "areas of concern" and in effect create regional planning agencies to establish spheres of influence and control them.

Also expected, according to Press, is for the State Chamber of Commerce bill for the creation of a state council to identify areas of "critical concern" and provide a method of compensation for lands "taken or damaged" to be resurrected.

Press said an environmental reorganization bill in some form that would coordinate such things as air and water is certain to be attempted.

"None will come to fruition," he predicted. "Any of these bills could make or break coastal protection."

Roger Beers, attorney with the Natural Resources Defense Council, reiterated that "the plan must be as specific and concrete as possible and fully explored in the context of the planning process."

Joe Petrillo, attorney with the state Coast Commission staff, said "this is your interest that is being dealt with. We want and need your opinions.

"Once we make a plan that would throw roadblocks in the way of citizens being heard, the only opinion would be those with funds to gain technical mastery of our procedure," he said.

Energy Warning By McCloskey

Sounding like the proverbial messenger of bad tidings, Congressman Paul N. (Pete) McCloskey Saturday dropped a bombshell on the aspirations of California Coastal Alliance environmentalists.

McCloskey, himself a conservationist attorney, warned not to "write off" the over-riding priority of the energy needs facing the country.

According to McCloskey, a new energy policy could open the door to everything from offshore drilling to possible construction of nuclear power plants along the California coast.

President Gerald Ford is expected to announce a new energy policy in his state of the union message in January.

"This is the first time we've come to grips with what a national energy policy is going to be," said McCloskey to the group meeting in an all-day session at the South San Francisco Rodeway Inn.

"The energy policy will be determined in Congress as much as in the executive branch," he added, in urging citizen input. "There never has been such an opportunity for citizens to have an impact on what will be."

According to the congressman, energy considerations are predominant over all other priorities.

"There are 535 of us (in Congress) who want to do the right thing," said McCloskey. "But we don't know what to do. Everything is up for grabs. We're talking about changing 30 years of benign neglect of regulation of the oil industry."

McCloskey predicted that within the next 60 days the President would take action to cut back on energy consumption and move to develop all the potential resources within the country.

According to McCloskey, the intent is to create self-sufficiency (if not the illusion of it) that could lead to a lowering of world oil prices. This would mean offshore drilling.

"Clearly, the federal government has gotten the word down to get the states ready," said McCloskey. "What you could see would be a request for authorization to declare a national emergency, condemning local land.

"If conservationists' activities are seen as unduly delaying, there is a possibility of acceleration at the federal level," said McCloskey.

"It could lead to a trend of federal pre-emption on matters of national interest of such things as the sitings of power plants and refineries and offshore drilling."

McCloskey said if the new national energy policy put reliance on nuclear power, plants probably would be built on the coast instead of inland.

"There's not one congressman who doesn't want to preserve the coastline," said McCloskey. "The problem is, there are competing uses."

Extensive Benefits Available to Crime Victims

By LIN DAY

Victims of violent crimes in California, including those widowed or orphaned because of murders, are beginning to discover the extensive benefits now available to them under state compensation programs.

Physical loss, or direct income loss to survivors after a violent crime can mean state payments of up to $10,000 for medical expenses (including a burial), up to $10,000 more for lost wages or support, and an additional $3,000 for job retraining or rehabilitative services that may be necessary.

Not covered are personal or real property losses. As April Kestell Cassou, Deputy Attorney General in San Francisco, says, "Covering property losses would bankrupt the state. Someone might conceivably burn a $250,000 house down to kill a victim, for example.

A case in point, she says, was the loss to owners in the burning of the home in the SLA shootout in Los Angeles. Despite the loss, homes are not covered under the program.

A Hillsborough resident might qualify, she admits, if his mortgage were big enough; but essentially, the program is designed to assist the needy, and to prevent a violent crime from so disturbing the victim's potential of earning a living and surviving that he or she is shoved into welfare.

Increased publicity due to expansion of coverage last July has resulted in the piling up of claims to such an extent that the unexpanded section of the Office of the Attorney General of the State of California involved is months behind in processing them.

It will be next year before the first claim filed since July 1 is paid off, authorities admit. Meanwhile, however, increased action from publicity developed as the law was passed has brought claim payments to victims of crimes into the multi-million-dollar category.

Under the new law, effective July 1, the amount offered to victims was doubled, if their loss or damage is sufficient.

One family from southern California, suffering multiple losses, has collected a total of $30,000 from the state, even though application was under the old law which limited payments individually to $5,000. This was in the case of a woman with five children whose husband was murdered.

He had been making $1800 per month; and the state assessed the loss as maximum to the widow and children.

Most of the claims, and most of the payments, have been in southern California, the attorney general's office admits. That's because both police and community in the Los Angeles area have been more aware of the law and have acted more vigorously to implement it.

However, today, every police department has forms that victims can fill out, and in this area, is being instructed on how to insure that victims of violent crime are aware that they can get some compensation from the state.

In the city of San Mateo, for example, Capt. Howard Trickett explained, Detective James Allen has been assigned to insure that eligible victims who have suffered damage or loss in violent crime are provided with the forms and information to make a claim.

"Usually," Trickett explains, "what happens is that the victim whose bills are not covered by insurance may submit a claim to the state. Then, there is also the Good Samaritan clause, where a citizen may have suffered injury in helping an officer of the law in his duty. He too may make claim."

Trickett said that only a few weeks ago, the widow of a man shot dead on East Poplar Avenue was given forms to make claims.

Procedure, he said, is for the attorney general's office to ask for a copy of the police report after receiving a claim. "After that," he says, "we hear no more about it; and we don't know whether the claims are paid or not."

Richard Godegast, who heads the four-man unit in Sacramento that processes the claims before they are submitted to the State Board of Control, says there has been a "dramatic increase" in claims, and a matching increase in payments.

In 1973-74 fiscal year, the office accepted 1,313 claims, and allowed 727 for awards of $1,375,000, he said. (Additionally the state pays its investigative costs.)

In the 1974-75 fiscal year,

he said, there has been a steady increase, month by month. He detailed them as follows:

In July, there were 175 claims filed, 175 accepted and 49 allowed; in August, 240 filed, 215 accepted, and 71 allowed; in September, 315 filed, 236 accepted, and 60 allowed; in October, 395 filed, 235 accepted, and 64 allowed.

Amounts allowed, by month, were July, $93,550; August, $123,342; September, $114,071; and October, $133,981.

In November, 87 claims were allowed, for a total of $172,804, he said.

A dozen new claims have asked rehabilitation, and the paperwork has been sent out.

Godegast emphasized that while the claims go to a hearing of the State Board, the hearing is not held, like a trial, in an "adversary atmosphere."

Instead, he said, the board merely seeks to verify facts.

Those asking state funds may use attorneys, however — the bill provides for them. Attorneys, Godegast said, are just beginning to hear about the bill and "we are getting calls from them now."

While 13 or so states now have some form of victim compensation in violent crimes, California is unique in that it differs the job-retraining or rehabilitative services. Under this program, for example, a widow forced back into the job field by the murder of her husband, can ask for funds up to $3,000 to pay for her training so that she may support herself or her family.

A person injured in a crime may seek training to prepare himself for a different kind of job if he has been incapacitated.

With a four-month backlog of cases piled up, the Control Board meets regularly in Sacramento and Los Angeles for hearings.

Wednesday, at 10 A.M., Longs opens its huge Burlingame Super Drug Store. Many of you are already our customers in other locations and enjoy our consistent everyday low prices. Your acceptance of our San Mateo Store the past 7 years prompted us to open this huge Burlingame Store so that we may more conveniently serve you, our customer, in the surrounding areas. We, at Longs, proudly invite you to visit our newest store. There will be no urging to buy, there never is at Longs. Just look around leisurely and share with us the accomplishment of a store embodying the very latest ideas to bring you better service, better values, better quality. Please look around and give us your comments; Longs learns from its customers.

The Longs Drug Store idea has its beginning in 1938. Following our college days, we opened our first store in Oakland and since that time just 36 years ago, Longs has opened stores throughout California and Hawaii. Each store has been an improvement over the last and this one in Burlingame represents the total previous experience of 81 stores and 36 years of Drug and Sundry Merchandising.

Longs is more than just a common ordinary drug store. You will find thousands upon thousands of items you can use in daily life . . . and at prices that will make you smile. In order to accomplish serving you properly, we have made it a point that our personnel are among the best in retail industry. Store executives have been trained in other stores and have earned promotions to the newest location. They are taught that you, the customer, must be pleased, or our success is jeopardized. We warmly invite you to visit our store . . . please bring the family!

County Hopes to Receive $14 Million for Transit

San Mateo County should receive nearly $14 million over the next six years to assist in development and operation of a mass transit system.

The Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC) has estimated that the county's share of the more than $136 million allocated for the nine Bay Area counties at $13,886,676.

Funding is provided in the $11.8 billion Urban Mass Transportation Assistance Act signed into law last month by President Gerald Ford.

Distribution of the funds is based on a formula of population and population density devised by the MTC.

The Transportation Assistance Act provides that slightly over 70 per cent of the funding will be allocated for capital use (purchase of equipment and construction of facilities), with the balance going either for capital grants or operating subsidies.

It is specified in the legislation that capital grants will be made on a ratio of 80 per cent federal funds to 20 per cent local funds. Grants for operating subsidies will be on a 50-50 matching basis.

The MTC reported that the new assistance program will not affect the allocations presently going to transit districts from the Urban Mass Transit Administration (UMTA).

In San Mateo County, use of the funds will be under the direction of the new San Mateo County Transit District voted into existence by voters in the Nov. 5 general election. Appointment of six of the district's nine-member board of directors is scheduled for next month or early January.

Applications for grants from urbanized areas with a population of 200,000 or more (San Mateo County) will be submitted to the U.S. Secretary of Transportation.

SM Mayors Debate Posting Gas Prices

Should a program be enacted by the cities and the county requiring service stations to post their per gallon gasoline prices?

This was a question that went unanswered at a meeting of the San Mateo County Council of Mayors meeting at the new Half Moon Bay restaurant Friday night.

The question was brought up by a letter from Mrs. Jean Fassler, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, in which she declared:

"Posting of prices would seem to be in the interest of the citizens of this county."

She point out, however, that a county ordinance would be effective only if all individual cities would enact comparable laws.

After Mayor William G. Glang of Millbrae emphasized that his city had only a limited success with such an ordinance because "such a program needs more than local support," Supervisor William Royer said the county is waiting on the cities' stand on the proposal.

Mayor McRobert L. Stewart of Daly City, chairman of the Mayors' Council, suggested that each city hold public hearings on the proposal because he was surprised over how the price varies "from station to station under the same banner" when operators came before public officials to explain their stand.

Kitchen Fire In Daly City

A kitchen fire at a Daly City home last Wednesday caused an estimated $1,500 in damage.

Occupant of the house at 14 Longview, Mrs. C. Laws, told investigators the blaze started when grease in an overstove vent fan caught fire about 6:23 p.m.

THE PERFECT HOST

Sebastiani Mountain Burgundy, 5th

A delicious, yet moderately priced wine to serve with the beef roast that is featured this week would be Sebastiani Mountain Burgundy. This is a full-bodied dry red wine that is excellent with red meats, pasta or cheese.

The taste, aroma and bouquet of this delicious wine can be best appreciated when it is served at room temperature.

Sebastiani Mountain Burgundy is a value at $1.65 a fifth.

North County Crime Unit Pushes Operation Identification

By BOB PETERSON

Crooks need money for Christmas too.

So protecting your personal property, such as stereo equipment and television sets, is more important now than at any other time of the year.

Guaranteed protection is as easy as checking out a library book.

This is the message members of the North San Mateo County Crime Prevention Unit (NSMCCPU) are attempting to put across to all residents of the North County.

Under the program more commonly known as Operation Identification, whereby personal valuables in a household are marked with an engraving tool, it is believed the number of home burglaries can be curtailed.

South San Francisco detective James Cooper, and his counterpart in San Bruno, Frank Cook, point out that this particular prevention program has been proven successful in a Southern California experiment.

According to Cook, of 4,000 residences participating in the program under a controlled sampling, only three burglaries occurred. While in another controlled sampling of 7,000 residences that did not participate in the program there were 1,800 burglaries reported.

Operation Identification in various forms has been in existence throughout San Mateo County for several years. But both Cooper and Cook agree that residents for one reason or another have not actively participated in it. They, along with fellow detectives Bob Vogt of Daly City and Eric Jorgensen of Pacifica, are now with the yuletide season ahead stressing again the importance of the project.

One reason residents have failed to participate in the past appears to be a reluctance to go to a police station and check out an engraving tool.

To remedy that situation, the crime prevention unit has established a check out program where residents of San Bruno, South San Francisco, Pacifica and Daly City can merely go to a local library, or in some cases a fire station, and check out a tool as one would a book.

They can be checked out in Pacifica at both the Hilton Way and the Linda Mar Shopping Center libraries; in South San Francisco, at the libraries on Grand Avenue and West Orange Avenue as well as the fire station on Galway Place.

San Brunans may check out the engraving tool at the city library on El Camino Real and the main fire station on El Camino Real or the substation on Sneath Lane at Earl Avenue.

For those in Daly City, the marking device may be checked out at libraries on Mission Street, Geneva Avenue and Southgate Avenue.

According to Cooper and Cook, the value of the marking can't be stressed enough. They suggest the property be engraved with the number on an individual's driver's license. This, they said, is the easiest number to run down for identification purposes.

Do not use your social security number, they said.

Markings made with the tool are engraved permanently.

When the tool is returned, the user will be provided with an Operation Identification decal that will stick to the inside of a window. This sticker will announce to potential thieves that all items of value on the premises have been marked for ready identification by law enforcement agencies.

That's the crux of the program.

PLANNING

The first meeting of the new Daly City Camp Fire Girls Area Service Team was held Dec. 6. Members include (from left) Nancy Steckley and Kathleen Rudovsky, program consultants; Frances Quinn, business manager; Ruth Goan, chairwoman; and Diane Hansen, program consultant. Function of the group is to support Camp Fire Leaders and girls in Daly City, to serve as their communication link to Golden Gate Council, and to supply members for their Coastside District Committees.

50 Attend YIG Day On Coast

Both Oceana and Terra Nova high schools participated in Pacifica's annual Youth-In-Government Day Nov. 26. Neary 50 students attended the 14th annual event, involving history and government students.

The first action was the match-up of two Terra Nova and two Oceana students with their counterparts. Councilmen, city officials and commissioners took part in the event. Each official took his four counterparts explained his job and how the city government is run.

Then the students went to the Moonraker, where they split into two caucus groups to discuss the pre-arranged issues. One caucus discussed the $14,000 Standard Oil money given to the youth of Pacifica. Proposals were made to donate the money to the City of Pacifica to construct bike paths, giving half to Oceana and half to Terra Nova, and holding a dance concert or a series of dances in order to raise more money.

Three resolutions were drafted for the mock city council meeting that afternoon.

The second caucus discussed Pacifica's General Plan. Four proposals were drawn up: public hearings should be held to explain the General Plan to the public, Pacifica should try to increase its tax base by making the city desirable to industries, changing the zoning maps so that they agree with the General Plan map, and to lower the projected population to 50,000, add a new City Hall, eliminate highway 380 and make Sharp Park Road open for improvement.

Bike Auction

Girls' and boys' bicycles will be auctioned by the Daly City Police Department Friday in the police parking lot beginning at 10 a.m.

The property will be sold for cash only, according to the department.

Tanforan Bus Run Approved

San Bruno City Council Monday night gave the City of Brisbane authorization to operate a special bus run to the Tanforan Shopping Center on Saturdays, and one other day of the week.

The approval was granted with the understanding San Bruno city officials could revoke it at any time, particularly should some form of county-wide public transit be adopted.

Brisbane recently established a bus system consisting of two 16-passenger buses which presently run north to San Francisco and south to South San Francisco.

According to a letter from Brisbane City Manager Clark Smithson, both buses are being used during rush hours and one bus during the rest of the day.

Smithson said Brisbane's San Bruno run (which could possibly include other shopping areas in the city) might expand "if demand warrants."

Exact routing has been left "flexible" so Brisbane can determine which route provides the best service.

In other business, the council:

• Said goodbye to Councilman George Corey, who has resigned effective Dec. 16, because he and his family will be moving to Millbrae. Mayor Tony Governale lauded Corey as "gutsy," able, gifted and a man of integrity — who has been "right 99 per cent of the time on most of the issues."

• Authorized the preparing of proclamations of recognition for all the members of the San Bruno Rams Pop Warner Football team who recently defeated a San Bernardino team, 24-3, to be, as Councilman George Corey put it, "state champs in their weight class."

• Heard Civil Defense Administrator William Hinchcliff explain plans for installing emergency answering and dispatching systems that he estimated would cost the city $57,545 annually. No action was taken. Hinchcliff said he was seeking the concensus of the county's councils to "accept the concept" and City Manager Gerald Minford said he was preparing a report that would question the "unrealistic deadline" on the proposal as well as other aspects of it.

• Granted an increase in taxi cab rates to the Peninsula Yellow Cab Co. owned by Joseph Gilio. The increase is from 80 cents to 90 cents per one-mile trip and from $8 to $9 for "waiting time." The approval is contingent on similar increases for the firm in Millbrae and South San Francisco.

• Accepted the low bid of $3,567.85 by Melody Toyota of San Bruno for a 1975 Corolla to replace a 1968 Pontiac for use by the city manager's office.

• Approved the purchase of a budgeted $8,252.01 multi-channel tape recording retrieval system for the police department from the Dictaphone Corp. The new system will record telephone and radio calls for such things as reference in case of a missed message or referral needs on particular calls.

• Authorized the expenditure of $840 for the city's share of the second year funding of the Consolidated Crime Prevention Program for the North County.

• Unanimously agreed to request the county recommend Tanforan Park Shopping Center be placed in subzone three in the County Flood Control District, because there is no danger of the area flooding due to the fact that when constructed oversized drainage pipes were installed.

• Accepted the resignations of Mary Emrick and Richard Alves from the Traffic Safety Committee. Mrs. Emrick cited business reasons and Alves has moved to Arizona.

Death of DC Man Reported

A Daly City man died in Burlingame Thursday from what Burlingame police say is "an apparent result of an overdose of heroin."

Scott Guernsey Johnson, 31, a warehouseman, was reported dead on arrival when police and firemen responded to a 2 a.m. emergency call to 849 Walnut Ave.

Police said Johnson had been visiting a friend, Michael Spurlock, at that address, when he died.

There was no indication of violence, injury or illness from any other cause, they said.

Actual cause of death is to be determined by an autopsy by the San Mateo Corner's office.
